WE NOMINATE

Thomas Buchan Hartmann, 40-year old native of New Jersey and a highly skilled teacher-administrator in the demanding areas of primary and secondary education, who this week—11 years after he had departed the Princeton Scene—returned as first Principal of Princeton Day Schools, the challenging educational venture which is welding together the aspirations and achievements of two top-notch, long-established Princeton institutions, Miss Fine's School and Princeton Country Day. Out of this union will gradually emerge, on a 72-acre tract off The Great Road, an integrated operation consisting of a Lower School with some 210 students and separate girls' and boys' divisions each with an enrollment of approximately 315.

To Hartmann, currently rounding out his sixth year as Headmaster of St. Mark's School of Texas, the lone independent school for boys in mushrooming Dallas and occupying a new $1,000,000 physical plant comparable to the physical facilities projected for the Day Schools, will belong the responsibility of translating into fact carefully drawn plans. First, and hopefully by 1965, the Upper Schools (grades 9 through 12) will be transplanted from their present campuses to the new site; the Middle Schools (the 5th through 8th grades) will then follow and, finally, the Lower School (ranging from pre-kindergarten years through the 4th grade) will complete the "orderly move."

Over the next academic year Hartmann, an honors graduate of Princeton University in 1948 and for four years a key member of the Faculty and Administration here as The Hun School, will serve as Acting Headmaster of Princeton Country Day. This interim assignment as successor to California-bound Peter F. Rothermel will not only give him added insights into the Schools and the community they serve, but will also enable him to play a major role in planning the transformation of P. C. D. from a "junior school" into a full-fledged college preparatory school—paralleling the grade-patterns long characteristic of Miss Fine's and meeting what many feel is an urgent educational need in the Princeton Area.

Hartmann, born in nearby Somerville and a product of Somerville High School and Phillips Andover Academy, entered Princeton with the war-torn Class of 1945. Just a year later, the day before his 20th birthday, he enlisted in the Navy as a Seaman 2nd Class; in the fall of 1945 he returned to the Campus as a decorated Marine Corps aviator with the rank of captain. During World War II he had ranged the vast reaches of the Middle Pacific, flying 80 missions as American forces won control of the Marshall and Gilbert Islands.

His crowded years at Hun (1948-1952), which included service as Director of both Admissions and College Guidance, a brief period as Acting Headmaster and coaching assignments in three sports, were capped by his call to the Tower Hill School, Wilmington, Delaware, as Dean of Students and chairman of an excellent Department of History. Before going to St. Mark's of Texas in 1957, he completed two years of graduate study at the University of Delaware, carried forward an independent research project on the DuPont Company's original plant, and further demonstrated his versatility by writing for newspapers and scholarly publications.

For sharing the deeply held conviction of the Day Schools' Trustees that "here we have an opportunity to set standards for independent schools throughout our country"; for an unusual record of accomplishment through which shine enthusiasm for the profession of teaching and understanding that the strength of American education is rooted in interlocking, or complementary, systems of public and private education; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

ABOUT THE SCHOOLS . . .

Status of Studies. "Our citizens' committee has been very active, and we can see blue sky in completion of their work by fall," commented Richard Pearson, chairman of the Township Board of Education at Thursday night's meeting, "but we really just don't know when the Borough plans to move because the Joint Committee on Municipal Operations certainly hasn't done much — and that's an understatement!"

Mr. Pearson's citizens committee is the group appointed last September under the chairmanship of Herbert Bailey to collect facts about the school situation in Princeton Township — present facts that can be applied to future situations. One of the future situations, of course, is possible merger with the Borough system.

Since September, the four sub-committees under Mr. Bailey have been gathering data on population (under Simon Marcson), educational factors (under Max Blumenthal), finances (under Lester V. Chandler) and the high school population (under Frank C. Shoemaker).

The whole committee meets at least once a month, and the sub-groups meet as the occasion warrants.

"We've got a final report due in June, 1964," Mr. Bailey says, "and we keep that goal constantly in mind. We hope to have our sub-committee reports all finished by fall so that we can devote the last seven or eight months to digesting the data and working out long-range problems."

Borough? Not Yet. Meanwhile, across the Township line, the Borough's merger study waits in the wings. At Tuesday night's Borough Board of Education meeting, Mrs. Robert Palmer, who has been active in seeking Borough-Township merger studies, asked Graham Rohrer, Borough Board chairman, when these studies were going to get going.

"I cannot report that there is the beginning of a joint study by the two Boards," Mr. Rohrer replied. "We hope for some announcement in the near future."

The Borough Board's position is that both boards—Borough and Township — should study merger concurrently, in relation to the whole municipal consolidation picture.

Mr. Rohrer said on Tuesday night that the Joint Committee on Municipal Operations is "still looking for a commander-in-chief," and that until such an appointment is made and a timetable set up, the Borough and Township Boards together can take no direct action on a merger survey. Referring to the Bailey committee, Mr. Rohrer said, "Their work is elementary fact-seeking which would be pertinent to us."

Ask Action. "Dragging their feet" is a phrase often heard from Township residents and some school officials in regard to the situation.

"Would there be any value in some citizen noise on this matter?" asked Mrs. Rowan Boone, 31 Greenhouse Drive, of Mr. Pearson at the Township meeting Thursday.

"It would not be appropriate for the Township Board to comment on that," Mr. Pearson replied. "Clear differences exist about outcome and methods, and we must respect the political boundaries that do exist."

Who is to make the merger study? This is one question that seems to be holding up the Borough Board. One school of thought believes that the Borough should go outside Princeton for experts. The opposing faction says no. Princeton has more than enough talent within its own borders to do the job, and these points of view have yet to be reconciled.

The discussion at Thursday's meeting grew out of a report by A. Robert Trudel, Township Board member on the Princeton High School advisory committee.

"It is possible that the Borough may decide to send all its ninth graders to the new Borough school," Mr. Trudel reported. "This would make a three-year high school, and Borough planning may come to this. Our committee is going to meet for discussion of this subject in a couple of months."

The crest and crisis in ninth grade population is expected in 1965, according to Mr. Trudel. "How this crisis is to be solved," he said, "is still up in the air."

"We ought to take a hard look at this ninth grade problem," Mr. Pearson observed.

Chester A. Stroup, Borough superintendent, has suggested that future ninth graders might be assigned to walk across Walnut Lane from the high school to the new school for subjects such as English or social studies, or possibly to use new laboratory facilities. No mass transfer of ninth graders is contemplated, he said.

For the Township. "We had hoped, when Mr. Bailey's committee was organized last fall, that we could feed our consolidation facts into the Borough's hopper," Mr. Pearson said at Thursday's meeting.

But Mr. Bailey says, in discussing the work of his committee, "We can't worry about

Round-Up

Thievery continues to rise with the temperature . . . biggest haul was cameras and photographic equipment taken over the weekend from McCormick Hall, Princeton University Arts Building, with entry to Room 217 gained through forcing a locked door.

Thomas Mulvaney, the University's official photographer, provided Borough police with a list of missing articles and Detective Robert McAvenia estimates the loss may top $2,000 . . another campus theft involved four imported bicycles belonging to the University Racing Club, two of which had as many as ten gears . . . estimated value, in excess of $100 each

A basket of laundry containing sheets, pillow cases, towels, etc belonging to Mrs Peter Marx, 116 Fisher Place, Penns Neck, was stolen from the Coin Wash, 259 Nassau Street . loss approximately $60.

Vandals sprayed gold paint on two cars parked just off Tulane Street near Lincoln Court . . . fast-drying, it created a real refinishing problem for the owners, Joseph Perpetua, 405 Franklin Avenue, and Paul Wrlehl, Princeton-Hightstown Road

The soaring temperatures brought field fires, too . . one at 70 Hartley Avenue, a second at 16 McClean Circle and a third on the site of the proposed borough school between Walnut and Linden Lanes . . . the latter, blazing out of control shortly afternoon Sunday, resulted in a general alarm.

All fire-fighting apparatus also went last Wednesday to the home of Dr. and Mrs. David J. Rose, 112 Galbreath Drive, where flames suddenly broke out in a children's bedroom closet . . . damage was small but the blaze would have gained headway rapidly had not members of the family been home at the time.

Of more than 300 Princeton High School students on the honor roll for the fourth marking period, ten achieved high honors: seniors Linda Blattenberger, Carol Deering, Gladys Irish, juniors Connie O'Dea, Jeff Stokes, sophomore Karen Holman, freshmen Benay Adams, Susan Heinemann, Linda James, Neil Kurshan

The First Aid and Rescue Squad is within $9000 of its $70,000 building fund goal . checks may be sent to the organization at PO Box 529.

The question of whether the Garden Theatre should be subject to censorship through public pressure when some members of the audience find a short subject objectionable is debated again this week in Mailbox, page 22 . . . the proposed by-pass for Route 206 is also discussed as is the matter of providing housing on North Harrison Street for middle-income tenants.

Reactions of a coach's wife to a pressure-packed basketball season are reported on the sports pages (28-32) . . . teenagers' efforts to aid the teenage recreation program are detailed on page 18 . . . current book favorites among Princetonians are listed on page 19 and numerous developments on the business scene are reviewed on page 27.

Temperature fluctuations of 50 degrees have been recorded during the past week . . . on March 19, a low of 26 was recorded while on Monday, all records for March 25 were broken with a reading of 78.

Sunday's delightful weather jammed the University tennis courts and sent golfers out in numbers on Springdale's links . . . the early advent of spring was not, however, as much of a phenomenon as the meteor that streaked through the night at 10.10 p.m. Monday from north to south across the western sky.

what the Borough will do, although we must always keep them in mind because of school locations in the event of a merger. We feel that we're working on behalf of the Township."

Drawing upon outside consultants of such calibre as Charles Westoff and Etienne van de Walle of the University's Bureau of Population Research; Dr. Harold Howe, superintendent of the Scarsdale, N. Y., schools; E. Alden Dunham, director of admissions at the University and Kenneth Michael, principal of Princeton High School, the Bailey committee has been persistently at work.

Dr. Chandler's finance committee examines the interlocked questions of tax anticipation and possible school locations. Dr. Shoemaker's committee on the high school confers with Mr. Michael, discusses with Dr. Blumenthal's educational factors committee the shifts and trends of modern curriculum philosophy and ponders what is perhaps the hardest question of all: should the Township build its own high school? (1970 is the focus year: by then, there will be 1,000 Township high school children.)

How Many? Dr. Marcson's population committee is working with the School Board's Future Plans Committee on a "highly sophisticated" population survey to be made the first week in May.

For this "super-special census" (so characterized by Mrs. Jess Epstein, chairman of the Future Plans Committee), P.T.A. census-takers will use data processing cards designed by William Reuter of Educational Testing Service.

Every dwelling unit in the Township will have an individual 5-digit code, and each of the Township's 3,500-plus households will have two cards: one for all school-age children in a family, the other for everybody else in the family.

On the children's card will appear data on grade level, public-private school, which public school district, transportation and the like. The parent card will record information about other members of the family, their year of birth, length of residence in Princeton, how long the family plans to live here. Area coding will show which residential zone the family lives in. Both cards can be used for population projections, school class planning and transportation, as well as for information about future growth in the Township.

ETS' share in working out this data processing project is being contributed as a public service, and the Township School Board is paying only the cost of the cards.

Census data and projections will be prepared over the summer and presented in the fall as part of the population committee's report. With the reports from other committees on curricula, taxes and finance, they will constitute the fall and winter home-work for Mr. Bailey's committee.

MAYOR TAKES A LOOK

At Other Towns. The new town hall of Cranford, and the libraries of Maplewood, Montclair and Livingston have been on the itineraries of Mayor Henry Patterson and various Borough officials in the past week.

With Mrs. Ansley J. Coale, Mrs. E. Baldwin Smith and J. T. Richmond, public library trustees, Mayor Patterson toured three newly-built libraries on Monday to see various ways of stacking books and arranging floor space.

"We want to see different kinds of library buildings," Mr. Patterson told his weekly press conference, "and get some idea of what a certain square footage really looks like in terms of a building."

Last week, Mayor Patterson, Borough Administrator Robert Mooney, Police Commissioner William H. Walker, Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan and H.J. Jandl, Princeton architect, visited the new municipal building and jail in Cranford. Clerk and officials in Cranford gave them detailed information about square foot costs, the amount of office space needed by each department, and other specific information, which may come in handy when the Borough plans its own new municipal building, Mayor Patterson said.

"IT'S A CHALLENGE"

New Principal Speaks. A vigorous young man with a crew cut who has served as headmaster of an Episcopalian school for boys and part-time big-league baseball scout was introduced to Princeton on Tuesday as the new principal of Princeton Day Schools.

He is Thomas B. Hartmann, headmaster of St. Mark's School of Texas (Dallas) and erstwhile (1961) scout for the New York Yankees and, before that, for 12 years for the Detroit Tigers.

Referring briefly and with a grin to these extra-curricular activities, Mr. Hartmann turned at his introductory press conference to the challenge posed by the new Princeton Day Schools.

"This is the most exciting thing on the scene, nationally," he said, "and what we do here will be watched closely by other independent schools and by public schools as well."

Seeks Broad Participation. Mr. Hartmann said he hoped that Princeton Day Schools would eventually be able to offer an 11-month opportunity to boys and girls, using the idle summer months for enrichment studies in such subjects as art, languages or science which could be studied without the pressure of striving for high marks.

FOR THE YOUNGEST AND SMALLEST: An isolette is a special kind of crib that provides oxygen and controlled temperatures for premature babies and other infants who need special environmental controls. The Princeton Jaycees have given an Isolette to Princeton Hospital from the proceeds of the pro football game held last fall in Palmer Stadium, and John W. Kaufman (right), hospital administrator, is shown receiving the crib from Jaycee representatives. Left to right: Edward Edenfield, Jonathan Conole, Bernard Cooke and Mr. Kauffman.

"We should also offer these courses to boys and girls of the community who attend public schools," he continued, citing the examples set by St. Paul's School and The Westminster Schools of Atlanta in opening their courses to the community.

C. William Edwards, executive vice-chairman of Princeton Day Schols, enlarged upon cooperation between public and private schools in Princeton, and pointed out that Dr. Chester A. Stroup, Borough superintendent of schools, was not only a trustee of Princeton Country Day School but had also served on the committee that chose Mr. Hartmann to be principal of Princeton Day Schools.

"We hope to increase the good relations that exist now between the public schools and independent schools in Princeton," Mr. Hartmann added.

The new principal said that he was enthusiastic about the human resources of the Princeton area and that he hoped, in his work on curricula for the new school, to draw upon them.

"I am thinking not merely of visiting lecturers," Mr. Hartmann explained, "but of active cooperation with industrial research organizations, educational institutions and individuals whose contribution can give us a broader and richer curriculum."

The new principal, with Mrs. Hartmann and their three daughters, will move to Princeton about August 1.

WINNER NAMED

In Women's Club. Mrs. Sterling H. Anders, a member of the Woman's Club of Princeton, has been named a winner in the annual statewide creative writing contest held by the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Anders, who received a similar award last year, will be presented her award this year at a federation convention scheduled for Atlantic City in May. Her poem "Happiness" was the award-winning entry.

LADIES NIGHT PLANNED

By Hook and Ladder Co. Princeton Hook and Ladder Company will hold its annual ladies night dinner and dance on Saturday in its North Harrison Street firehouse.

Medals will be presented to all members who have completed 25 years of active service. William Toole, past president, and Albert Wright, past ways and means chairman, will be honored for their work last year.

THEME SELECTED

For Hopewell Flower Show. The Hopewell Valley Garden Club has selected a theme for its spring flower show. The theme is "I'm from New Jersey—the Garden State."

The show is scheduled for May 17 from 2 to 9 in the Fellowship Hall of the Hopewell Presbyterian Church. One of the 12 classes planned is entitled "Princeton — Halls of Learning." Those interested in entering the class should call Miss Margaret Kenney at HO 6-0163.

UNVEILING SCHEDULED

For Late Nathan Wolman. An unveiling of a memorial for the late Nathan Wolman will be held on Sunday at 1:30.

The ceremony will take place at Beth Israel Memorial Park, Woodbridge. Friends of the late Mr. Wolman, who operated a Witherspoon Street department store bearing his name for many years, are invited to attend.

51 BUYERS INTERESTED

In Elementary School Land. The Borough Board of Education held one of its longest sessions in the past year on Tuesday night. Topics ranged from salt on the sidewalks to the new $1.5 million elementary school.

School Superintendent Chester A. Stroup gave his reports from such a bulging portfolio that the Rev. Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen was moved to remark, "You ought to go to Congress, man!"

The pace of events since the last meeting had so accelerated, that Dr. Stroup was forced to preface his reports with explanatory remarks. This led Board President Graham Rohrer to comment, "Chet has to explain at length what he's going to present in detail."

School for Sale. Fifty-one inquiries have been received by the board concerning purchase of the Nassau Street School, according to Mr Rohrer. "A substantial number represent buyers of serious intent," he said. The inquiries, being handled by realtor Edmund Cook came from as far away as St. Louis, Boston, Detroit and Richmond.

Commenting on Princeton University's interest in the property, Mr Rohrer said that he had "several informal discussions with the administration of the university. "We expect, and hope, to get the top dollar for this property.

"We expect that the property will return tax ratables to the borough, as well help finance the new school. If Princeton should become a bidder, we have the right to specify terms . . . and in our advertisements we will include a formal statement that this property would return to the Borough an amount in taxes as a full business zoning."

PTA Request The board agreed to underwrite half of the cost of eighth grade's annual trip to McCarter Theatre. The Borough Elementary School PTA's president, Mrs. D. Barton Stevens, said that her group hopes to encourage more plays on the junior high level.

High School Changes. Classes will start ten minutes earlier next year at Princeton High School, according to the principal, Kenneth Michael. The academic day will end at 2:50, followed by an activities period. (At present, the activities period is held either before or after lunch.) Classes will be 50 minutes in length, instead of 45, and physical education periods will be reduced from four to three a week.

There will be four lunch periods, one for freshmen, one for sophomores, and so on. The hours will be staggered from 10:50 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

"I know 10:50 sounds early, but nearly 80% of the students are in school between 7:30 and 8:10 a.m., so they've had early breakfast," Mr. Michael said. The seniors will get a middle lunch period.—"And we'll give them plenty of music!"

The teachers will be required to stay in the building until the buses leave at 3:30. There will be no change in the bus schedules.

Home rooms will be eliminated, except when needed, as at the first week of school, or for officer elections. Announcements will be made and attendance taken at the first period class. "It does save a little time and traffic," Mr. Michael commented. The cafeteria and library will be open during the activities period for students waiting for the 3:30 bus. The board approved all changes.

BORGER APPOINTED

By Borough School Board. Richard Borger, a member of the business education department at Princeton High School for the past 26 years, has been appointed by the Borough Board of Education to succeed Miss A. Myrtle Hensler, retiring department head.

The board adopted a special resolution expressing its gratitude to Miss Hensler for the 41 years of service she has given to the Borough schools. Mr. Borger, a graduate of Franklin and Marshall, with a master's degree from New York University, will implement the work-study program she instituted.

BEER & BOWLING

Council Approves License. Transfer of the liquor license held by Midway Tavern, 68 Witherspoon Street, to Princeton Recreation Center has been approved by Borough Council.

However, David H. Burrough, owner of the bowling center at 138 Nassau Street, may not be in a position to accept it after all. He plans to remodel a second floor storage room into a cocktail lounge, claiming that nearly 50 percent of his business has been lost to the new recreation center on U.S. 1, which serves liquor.

The transfer may fall through if the Zoning Board of Adjustment rejects the Nassau Oil Company plan for a gas station at the Witherspoon Street sites now occupied by Midway Tavern, John's Shoe Repair, the Burnett Griggs residence and the former Griggs Restaurant at the corner of Witherspoon and Hulfish Street. The application for the gas station and for off-street parking spaces will be heard at 8 p.m. this Thursday in the Borough Engineer's Office, 102 Witherspoon Street.

Two letters objecting to the sale of liquor at the bowling center were read at the special Council session. Mrs. Irving W. Mershon, owner of 140 Nassau Street, next to the bowling alleys, stated that the cocktail lounge will have a "bad moral influence" on the young people frequenting the place.

Pastors Object. The Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel of First Presbyterian Church stated the opposition of the Princeton Pastors' Association, of which he is president. "It is incongruous that here is a community expressing concern for our young people and at the same time we decide to make alcoholic beverages the more available and the more enticing to them in conjunction with a recreation facility of which they make extensive use."

Robert H. Higgins, owner of the Tavern, consented to the license transfer with the stipu-

Early spring? Could be—at least, this week had given winter-weary people and hibernating crocs reason to believe so.

Traditional March winds may keep the temperature down a bit from the high-flying readings earlier in the week, when all-time records were broken by thermometers topping 70. But generally fair and generally mild through Sunday is the forecast, it says here.

News Of The THEATRES

PEASANTS, ARISE!

"Fuente" Opens. The peasants of Fuenta Ovejuna are a pretty sturdy lot and if you think you have it bad, with income taxes and rising school budgets and parking tickets, you should see what these people have to contend with.

Their landlord rapes their wives and has the menfolk beaten from time to time, the mayor doesn't really seem quite bright in the head and he's one of those people who thinks he is witty when he's just a bore and the king and queen return the devotion of the villagers by having them stretched upon the rack. It all seems most unfair.

"Fuenta Ovejuna" which closes the winter-spring "Ladders of Ambition" series at McCarter, is a drama by Lope de Vega about civil strife in Spain in 1476 when Ferdinand and Isabella were scrabbling for possession of the Spanish throne. The play will be given again this Thursday at 7.30, Friday at 8.30 and Sunday at a 3 p.m. matinee.

Lope has written a play which is, by modern standards, a melodrama. David Hooks has directed it for color and fire, but he has toned down its melodramatic overtones so that, as played on the McCarter stage it is a serious drama about oppression and rebellion and the final triumph of good. If the villain is hissed toward the end, and the heroine cheered, it's Lope's fault and not Mr. Hooks'.

There isn't much point in detailing the plot. McCarter has thoughtfully provided about 400 words of synopsis, and if you didn't have this program with the names and numbers of all the players, you could easily get lost completely. One member of the audience remarked that the synopsis reads just like a libretto, and it is indeed true that "Fuente would be happiest if it were cast into the mold of 19th century opera, probably by Mascagni, although Verdi and Puccini would have had fun with it, too.

Curtain! The villainous Comendador would be a basso, with a lustful, sinister love song and a splendidly violent death scene. Laurencia, the heroine, would be a coloratura with great opportunities for a "mad" scene as she rouses the populace to rebellion after her capture and rape.

She could also have a love duet with the tenor hero, Frondoso, and another duet with the contralto, Pascuala, as they draw water from the well and discuss the ways of men. And of course, Spanish peasant dances and choruses and a conspirators' scene written in a dark, minor key and a torture scene full of screaming dissonance and at the end, something terribly martial with trumpets and a big final chorus about freedom and the triumph of true love . . .

Well, it didn't turn out that way. Instead, we have Lope's verses in translation, lines that are spoken by the McCarter company with considerable adroitness so that one is never obtrusively and insistently aware that the play is indeed a verse drama.

Unfortunately, Roy Campbell's translation is uneven, giving us moments of delightful lyricism, like Laurencia's apostrophe to the joys of country life, jarring against contemporary colloquialisms like "fizzled out" and the irritating,

I'M A VILLAIN: Playing to the hill — but not beyond — Karl Light portrays the dastardly Comendador in McCarter's production of "Fuente Ovejuna," last in the "Ladders of Ambition" series.

repetitive, "I'll ole Fuente Ovejuna" spoken at the end by the village buffoon.

Performance. The cast copes with the situation very well, considering the fact that Lope has presented the actors with cardboard characters who never really develop. (That is probably one reason why the Spanish playwright remains in theatrical oblivion.)

Karl Light makes the Comendador villainous without mustache-twirling. Ronnie Claire Edwards is a perfect Laurencia, with her straight, dark hair and high coloring, and if she seems to overdo things as she incites the villagers to revolt, you've got to remember that the girl has been snatched from her bridegroom's arms and raped on her wedding night, and really has a right to be somewhat annoyed.

John Wynne-Evans is an amusing Mengo, portraying the buffoon with pleasingly broad strokes, and Barbara Cason is again, as she was in "Galileo," one of those feet-on-the-ground matrons who give ballast to all the fuss and fire going on around her.

George Reinholt, as the soldierly Flores, shows that he can play more than prim fops, and Buddy Jarvis, the supporter of Portugal, conveys his youthfulness with a believable and straightforward manner.

If you like the history of the theatre, "Fuente" will interest you as a period piece. Better see it while you can; it may well be the only chance you'll ever have.

ACTOR IS A CASUALTY

After He Forgets Lines. Admitted to Princeton Hospital with cut wrists after he "blew" his lines in "Fuente Ovejuna" Friday night, Raymond Barry, 23, is in "satisfactory" condition according to hospital officials.

The young actor, playing what was probably his first speaking role in the theatre, was portraying Cimbranos, the messenger, in a turbulent second act scene. When he forgot his lines, the rest of the company covered for him and because of the restless nature of the scene, most of the audience was not aware that anything had happened.

According to Mrs. Herbert McAneny, general manager of McCarter Theatre who was in the audience at the time, young Barry ran off stage in a frightened and highly emotional state. He is said to have cut himself on one of the backstage saws.

David Hooks, director of "Fuente Ovejuna," stepped into the role of Cimbranos for the remainder of Friday's performance and for Saturday night's as well.

Young Barry was scheduled to have a role in "A View From the Bridge," the Arthur Miller play which is being produced in a one-afternoon stand this Saturday in order to give a speaking chance to lesser known members of the McCarter company.

TO GIVE MILLER PLAY

"View from the Bridge." Some of the lesser-known players in the McCarter Theatre professional repertory company will have a chance to show what they can do when Arthur Miller's "A View from the Bridge" is presented at the theatre this Saturday in a once - only matinee performance.

Curtain will go up at 2.30

The performance is free and open to the public.

Ron Satlof, a member of the company is serving as director of the Miller work, scheduling his already crowded time so that he can direct in between performances of "Fuente Ovejuna" and "Julius Caesar."

For his cast, Mr. Satlof has Bob Palmer, who played the Duke in "Comedy of Errors;" Silvana Simoni and Bud Jarvis who were two of the three ballad singers in "Galileo;" Haig Chobanian, who has played dual roles in many productions, but whose witch in "Macbeth" a few seasons ago was probably his most memorable part; Charles Miller, who is the King of Spain in "Fuente;" Ray Barry who was a servant in "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" and Harry Brauser and Norman Rothstein who are members of the McCarter technical crew.

ONE MORE WEEK!

Then—"Rhinoceros." "A delightful and unavoidable theatrical experience," is the way Theatre Arts characterized Eugene Ionesco's "Rhinoceros," which will open next Thursday at 8:30 in Murray Theatre under the Community Players' banner.

Performances will also be given next Friday and Saturday, April 5 and 6, and the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 11, 12 and 13.

After "Rhinoceros" opened on Broadway in January, 1961, the New York "Times" referred to it as "an allegory for our times." The New York "Post" said, "Its satirical humor, much of it very funny, combined with its provocative theme and surprisingly moving ending, results in a theatrical evening that is strange, disturbing and arresting."

Tickets for the Community Players' production are on sale at the University Store, or may be purchased from any member of Community Players. Prices are $1.50 for Thursdays and $2 for Fridays and Saturdays. Special discounts are available for students and theatre parties.

"VIRGINIA" AGAIN

In Fourth Appearance. Anyone who missed the three performances of Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virgina Woolf?" given lately in McCarter—and it's hard to believe that anyone did, considering all the SRO signs—will have another chance.

The play will return again to McCarter on Friday, May 10, with that same 8 p.m. curtain. Early reservations are recommended by the management.

With the repertory season at an end, the theatre will turn to other performers and other arts. The first will be Dave Brubeck and his Quartet, who will appear at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 20.

Next on the calendar is Count Basie, "the most explosive force in jazz" who will come to Princeton during Houseparties weekend, Sunday, May 5, at 3 p.m.

WHO'S FOR ANTIQUES?

Wellesley Show is Coming. Early American primitives, old pewter, brass and silver, Oriental and hooked rugs, guns, 18th century English furniture, old sailing instruments, French Provincial clocks, folk art — what is your preference? Such a wide range of arts and relics of the past will be included in the fourth annual Wellesley Antiques Show and Sale that everybody in the family will be able to look, to enjoy, and maybe even to buy.

The show, featuring 27 exhibitors from all over the northeastern United States, will be held at Princeton Country Day School next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from noon to 10 p.m., with a 6 p.m. closing on Thursday, the last day.

It is The Clock Shop of Princeton that will display the juke box we described elsewhere on this page. In addition, The Clock Shop will show an English grandfather clock from 1760 with a silver dial and rocking ship, and an ornate French Provincial clock which strikes on the hour and repeats the strike a minute and ahalf later, in case you were too sleepy to count the first time.

Prince of Orange, the shop in Hopewell, will display 18th century furniture from England, and Virginia Holcombe, also of Hopewell, will show old prints and furniture. Anne Delgado, Red Barn Antiques, Belle Mead, will exhibit some early Americana which includes old pewter and furniture.

Authentic old flasks, fine old guns, and china will be on view from Sam Laidacker of Bristol, Pennsylvania. Other Bucks County exhibitors will show a Lowestoft armorial tea set with coat of arms, displayed within an English breakfront, and a Chippendale wing chair dating from about 1780. George Hobensack of New Hope will spread his Oriental rugs for display, and Violetta Seofield of Doylestown will show many pieces of antique jewelry.

For collectors of Americana, there will be a rare 35½-inch-wide New England maple slant-top desk from Fireside Antiques of Pluckemin, together with a William and Mary blanket chest and various pieces of pewter.

Karl F. Wede, Inc., of Saugerties and The Old House of Osterville on Cape Cod, will bring a touch of the sea inland with their ships' figureheads, instruments, sailing prints and old ship models.

A complete exhibit, reminiscent of Old Salem, will serve to display paintings of old Boston sailing ships done by contemporary artists Ralph and Martha Cahoon in the style of the old primitives.

Other dealers showing primitives will be James Abbe, Jr., of Oyster Bay, one of the country's outstanding dealers in antiques of this kind. Jack and Gretchen Sharp of South Salem, New York, and Frederick T. Schoch of New York.

Dried flower arrangements from 18th Century Bouquet of Princeton in miniature and full size will be used throughout the show.

1, 2, 3 — SHIFT!

Free and Easy Does It. They will start you out at Bailey's, in the Princeton Shopping Center, with a beige (blue) orlon knit shift, soft as a Persian kitten, and made just like a sweater, with short ribbed sleeves, round neckline, topping a front which buttons three-quarters of the way down, and $15.98 price tag.

From there, as the weather warms, you can go on to a black-on-white or white-on-black scribble print cotton so A-shaped it looks like a wedge of pie, with no sleeves and a notched round neck. It's $8.98.

Or a Belgian linen affair with very deep sleeves, boat neck and optional sash. This one has vertical stripes in very subdued geometrics that set off greyed shades of lemon, apricot and olive against one another. Terrible suave.

But if you'd rather call attention to your waistline, Bailey has a sleeveless black pique with dazzling "crewel" jacket that turns out to be print and not embroidery at all. Fine hopsacking has been used for a flat-front pleated skirt in grey green with a sleeveless popover in olive, grey and teal horizontal stripes, and a deep U cut, front and back. This model appears again in a bright lemon pique with awning striped top, and a brown cotton tweed.

In the coat-room at Bailey's, we found a navy and olive check with wide, slightly A-shape, round neckline without a collar and great big patch pockets. The navy cotton lin-

Put a Penny In

If you have an English penny—and we're broke as a bloke at the moment—you might be able to elicit a song like "She's Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" from a juke box which will be on view at the Wellesley Antiques Show.

It's an old-fashioned standing music box, actually, with a strong genetic resemblance to a modern juke box. Upon the insertion of that penny we don't have, it plays a series of big, perforated metal discs and it raises, in the process, fascinating glimpses of the future . . . an antique show of the year 2063 featuring one of those amusing neonlit juke boxes playing old-fashioned, fuddy-duddy dance music like "The Twist."

and Philip Alford, are looked after by their Negro maid, Estelle Evans. The off-screen voice of the little girl, now grown, sets the stage of yesterday.

The story concerns the significant events in a southern town during the depression 30s. Gregory Peck under-plays his role as Atticus Finch, the country lawyer who tries to bring up his young son and daughter with a true sense of human values.

He faces a crisis when he is assigned to defend a Negro accused of a crime he did not commit. White-Negro hatred is fanned to a frightening flame.

The play of emotions in the town and Peck's effort to obtain fair play for the accused are seen through the eyes of the children. The highlight of the film is reached in the courtroom scene; Peck's speech to a prejudiced jury is brilliantly done.

Remarkable performances are given by the two children. Credits also go to Ruth White, as a cantankerous old recluse; Collin Wilcox, a farm girl whose false accusations stick in her throat in the courtroom; Brock Peters, the accused Negro farm worker, and Frank Overton, as an enlightened southern sheriff. Comment: hatred and prejudice, through children's eyes.

Five Miles to Midnight (Sun. thru Tues.) Is a study of character, stemming from the plans of an opportunist to gain criminal advantage of insurance following a plane crash.

Sophia Loren, an Italian girl, is married to American Anthony Perkins and they live in Paris. Their relations become strained, with Miss Loren disillusioned by his instability and fits of temper. He flies to Casablanca as she threatens to leave him, but the plane crashes and all are reported killed. Several days later, she is surprised by the midnight appearance of Perkins, dirty and hurt. He has decided to remain dead to all except Miss Loren, whom he sends to collect the insurance from a flight policy. She goes through with the scheme against her will as Perkins hides in their apartment, which gives rise to several suspenseful scenes. Comment: a moderately interesting film, over-long.

PRINCE

Madame (now playing) In this one, Sophia Loren plays a laundress turned dutchess. The film is based on the notable play, "Madame Sans Gene" by Moreau and Sardou. There is much spectacle in the colorful pomp of Napoleon's court, with elaborate costumes for the women and even more extravagant uniforms for the men. Here and there are comic overtones.

The plot concerns a young laundress of Paris 1792 who washes shirts for Napoleon Bonaparte, then a lieutenant of artillery. As Napoleon moves upward, he elevates Miss Loren's husband, played by Robert Hossein, from sergeant to general to duke. When he is about to make him a king on condition that he divorce Miss Loren, Madame has other ideas. The palace scenes are amusing as Madame alternately has trouble with her train and insults the emperor's sisters. Comment: a frothy piece to titilate Miss Loren's fans.

GARDEN

The Lion (now playing) An unusual, and frequently exciting picture has been made of Joseph Kessel's novel. The picture is almost breathtaking at times in its scenic effects and the views of the animals native to the Kirinyaga Game Reserve in Kenya.

The plot concerns an American lawyer, played by William Holden, who comes to Kenya in response to the plea of his ex-wife, Capucine, who is now the wife of Trevor Howard, game warden and former white hunter. Capucine seeks help with her daughter, portrayed by 11-year-old Pamela Franklin, who has grown up in her step-father's image, living only for the bush. The child's closest friend is Zamba, a remarkably trained lion, which she has raised from a cub.

The warden realizes that Holden still loves Capucine. The problem is intensified when Holden tries to save an ill tribal leader left to die in the jungle. The complications reach a climax when a chief's son seeks to kill a child's lion to demonstrate his fitness for leadership. Comment: drama in East Africa.

NEW STRAND

The Last Ten Days (Sun., March 31) was written by Erich Maria Remarque and based on a story, "Ten Days to Die" by Justice A. Musmanno, a judge at the Nuremberg Trials and long-ago defense attorney for Sacco and Vanzetti. The setting is Adolf Hitler's bunker 30 feet below the flaming remains of Berlin.

The film opens with the celebration of Hitler's 56th birthday on April 20. Goebbels, Goering, Ribbentrop, Doenitz and a host of be-ribboned generals come to pay their despects and drink champagne toasts. It recounts the ten days of successive disasters which culminated in Hitler's joint suicide with Eva Braun. Comment: the shabby Gotterdammerung of the Third Reich.

MONDAY is the last day on which classified ads may be changed or cancelled. New classified advertising may be inserted until 5 p.m. Tuesday.

lation that the land and building be purchased. Council therefore contingently approved the transfer "person to person at the 68 Witherspoon Street premises," and agreed to permit "transfer of the license from Witherspoon Street to the Princeton Recreation Center, 138 Nassau Street, on condition that the (cocktail room) layout be done as presented." Council futher stipulated that liquor be sold only from the second floor cocktail bar and subject to approval from zoning, fire, health and other municipal bodies.

Mr. Burrough told Council that "the cocktail room will open at 6 p.m. — not earlier when most of the youth are there." He is secretary of the State Bowling Proprietors Association and treasurer of the Mercer County Bowling Proprietors Association. "I am well aware of the laws," he added.

Mayor Henry Patterson stated that Council has taken a really strong point of view against selling liquor to minors. "We have not only Borough youth to worry about, but nearly 3000 across the street. I think the problem comes from the student who looks 21 and is not. I certainly suggest that you check with other licensees in this area for ways in which they avoid this trap."

Mr. Burroughs said, "I am not going to jeopardize my business by selling to a kid who isn't old enough."

HERE'S OUR NOTEBOOK

Planners Show Worksheets. Spreading out their basic working tables for all to see, the Township Planning Board held a press conference Friday as a follow-up to the broad-based annual report issued two weeks ago.

Four memoranda on the tax base, population, taxation and land use and the capital improvement program, each one averaging 12 pages, were explained by Jack M. Kendree, Township planning consultant.

"These are studies at the 'notebook level'," Mr. Kendree and Hans K. Sander, Planning Board member, said. "To be effective, a comprehensive plan must be current, and these reports are so designed that we can change them as new facts come up and use them as basics for the projected plans we will outline later."

Mr. Kendree said that one role of the Planning Board was to make broad plans which other groups could use as points of departure for deeper studies. He cited the Township School Board's forthcoming population studies, which will be fuller and more detailed than those made by the planners, and the expanded studies undertaken by the Open Space Commission.

He also said that, when the Planning Board first retained him as a consultant, it had already amassed so many facts that he was able to undertake the kind of depth study not always possible in other situations.

Highlights of the four memoranda:

- The five-to-14 age group almost tripled in the Township (174.5 percent) between 1950 and 1960, thereby accounting for various school board problems. Total poulation increase: 92.5 percent.
- The young marrieds (25 to 34 years of age) increased 44 percent between 1950 and 1960, and these are the people who buy houses; however, this group is now only 14.6 percent of the total population.
- Operating expenses in the Township quadrupled between 1950 and 1960, and represent by far the largest bite out of the tax dollar (except for school expenditures). The reason for this, Mr. Kendree said, is that Township residents demand services.
- So-called "low density" residential areas, where one house may occupy two or five or ten acres of land, are much more profitable for the Township than high-density areas, where houses are built close together on quarter-acre or one-acre plots.
- Industrial or research engineering land use isn't as profitable to the Township as residential use, but it's better than commercial use.
- Vacant land in outlying areas, which would probably require excessive municipal costs if it were developed, should be withdrawn from the market and kept as "open space."
- The most unprofitable way that land can be used is for stores and other commercial enterprises. Shopping centers are much more profitable than single shops.

The reports use "profitable" to mean that a particular use —home, store, business—pays its own way in terms of municipal services such as fire and police protection, sewers, streets and so on.

HOME ENTERED

On Mt. Lucas Road. The Princeton Township police are solving, piecemeal, the rash of burglaries. The latest to be cleared up is the February 4 entry of the Charles Tilly house, 317 Mt. Lucas Road.

Ralph C. Cavalier, 19, of Landing, N. J., has admitted taking a hi-fi set, an FM radio, guitar and other articles from the Tilly house. The disclosure came during questioning after Cavalier had been arrested and charged with entering six homes in Roxbury Township, near Netcong. He was scheduled to be arraigned before Magistrate James S. Hill this Wednesday.

ADD TWO NOTCHES

Bridge Hit Twice More. If the Princeton-Kingston Road bridge were flesh instead of stone it would be a mass of black and blue bruises. The most recent accidents to occur there, two within an hour of each other Saturday evening, further dented the long-suffering structure.

Jack Powell, 22, of Trenton, and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cole, 37, 166 Washington Road, led off when they collided at 6.43 p.m. Mrs. Cole told investigating Township police that she had lost control when something went wrong with her clutch and crossed over the center line. She complained of a bruised nose and right leg.

Fifty minutes later, Arnold Lilvak, 59, of New Brunswick, lost control and hit the north side of the bridge. Uninjured, Mr. Lilvak was issued a summons for careless driving. He reported he had been working all day and was extremely tired, police said.

FACES JURY ACTION

For Stealing T.V. Set. Edward S. Dugger, 35, 12½ Leigh Avenue, is in Mercer County Jail awaiting action by the Grand Jury for stealing a TV set early Friday morning from the Princeton Window Cleaning Company, 266 Witherspoon Street. He was charged with larceny.

John Nero, one of the owners of the company, reported the theft and later picked Dugger's picture from a police file. Mr. Nero told police he became suspicious of Dugger when he had seen him walking earlier near the firm with a claw hammer in his hand. Police said the set was located later in Dugger's home, not more than 100 yards away from the cleaning company.

DUAL CAMPAIGN SET

By Cancer Group. Harold E. Zarker, chairman of the Princeton branch of the Mercer County Chapter, American Cancer Society, has announced the opening of the annual educational and fund - raising campaign next month.

"One - third of the present deaths are needless in the light of existing knowledge," Mr. Zarker said. "We could be saving one out of two persons. Approximately 88,000 lives are lost needlessly each year."

On the optimistic side, Mr. Zarker referred to the 1.2 million people now living and considered cured of cancer. "That is, they are living five years after their illness was diagnosed as cancer and immediate steps were taken.

"If we could get people to visit their physicians annually for a check-up, it would insure early detection. This is the only existing key to the cure."

TUTORING BEGINS

At Study Center. The close, "you-me" relationship that grows betwen tutor and pupil has begun to open the minds of 17 Princeton boys and girls chosen for the new tutoring program at the Princeton Study Center.

Youngsters participating in the experimental program were selected from a group of 25 seventh graders referred to the Study Center and Tutoring Program by Witherspoon School.

"We picked children whom we felt were not making full use of their potential," said Mrs. Edwin Lotz, guidance counselor at the school. "In our opinion, these are the youngsters who stand to benefit most from tutoring."

Tutors are Princeton undergraduates and residents of the community, all of whom serve as volunteers. There is no charge for the tutoring service.

So far, this is only a pilot project, acording to Mrs. Frederick Stohlman, chairman of the Study Center's Tutoring Committee, and for this reason, the committee is not accepting additional applicants. There are only enough tutors for seventeen students at the moment, Mrs. Stohlman said, but the committee is gradually recruiting others.

Through this pilot project the Study Center hopes to learn how such a program should be run and what its problems are. Eventually, tutoring will be expanded to include more youngsters at various grade levels, Mrs. Stohlman said.

BOY, 6, IS INJURED

By Hit-Run Driver. Michael Burke, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Burke of Kendall Road, Kendall Park, was injured Saturday when he was struck by a hit-run driver who reportedly told the injured boy's mother, "Teach your kid to stay out of the street." She then drove off.

Police later identified the driver as Mrs. Ruth B. Roufberg of 22 Campbell Road, Kendall Park, not far from the Burke home. According to police, Mrs. Roufberg said she made the remark to the boy's mother because she was "furious." Mrs. Burke had rushed out of the house to help her son.

Michael had reportedly run out into the street after a ball. He was taken to Princeton Hospital for a fractured right thighbone. The hospital reported his condition satisfactory, but said that the boy would be in a cast for 12 weeks.

Hey, That's My House!

When cooking fat ignited on her kitchen stove Monday evening, Mrs. Robert F. Mooney of 46 Cedar Lane knew exactly what to do: she called her husband, the first assistant chief of the Princeton Fire Department, who happened to be at Mercer Engine Company No. 3. The message: "get home fast—and bring the boys!"

Mr. Mooney, Borough Administrator, reported that the ceiling and wall behind the stove had been scorched. What fire didn't damage, smoke and soot did, he said.

He estimated damage to the kitchen, just remodeled last year, to be in excess of $500. Trucks from Mercer Engine Company and Hook and Ladder responded.

Filled Easter baskets will be available, or may be ordered for later pickup. There will also be stuffed animals and other toys for children, as well as a variety of items for all ages and interests.

JUILLIARD QUARTET PLAY

In Series II. On Monday evening at McCarter Theatre, the final concert in Series II of The Princeton University Concerts presented the Juilliard String Quartet in works by Mozart (A major Quartet, K 464), Bartok (Quartet No. 3), and Beethoven (A minor Quartet, Op. 132).

In recent years, the preeminence of the Juilliard among quartets playing in the United States has become quite marked, and the observation that at least part of this margin of superiority is due to the deterioration of some other ensembles is not meant to detract from the achievement of the Juilliard. They have gone from strength to strength, with never a suggestion of staleness or routine, even in the works which they play most frequently.

If possible, the technical polish of the playing continues to increase, and one is almost never conscious of mechanical problems during their performances. Coming at the end of a season during which tolerable string intonation was beginning to seem a thing of the past, this concert was a salutary reminder that it is possible for a string ensemble to play in tune after all; in retrospect, it would even seem to be a desirable aim, making it possible for the audience to listen to the music directly as sounds, not merely as notes.

In all respects, Monday's concert was on the very highest level; the music itself needs no praise at this date, and the playing was serious and musical in the highest degree. It would be easy to list numberless details in the execution which brought pleasure and enlightenment, but the description is a poor substitute for the experience, and it is the total musical context which makes the details significant.

There was only one disappointment in the evening, one way in which this concert did not match the level one expects of the Juilliard; this was a sin of ommission, one hastens to add, not of the other, more egregious variety. One has come to expect, from this ensemble, a certain amount of novelty, but there was nothing on this program that one has not heard before; in fact, the newest piece on the program—Bartok's Third—was heard here in Princeton only last season, and thus bids fair to become the "Daphnis and Chloe" of the chamber repertoire.

Considering the number of extant works for this medium, as against the dozen (almost) which are played annually in Princeton, it would seem that such duplication is undesirable, on a purely local plane. In a larger view, one hopes that the Juilliard Quartet, however high their level of achievement, will continue their tradition of playing the best new music; this, after all, is the music which most needs their skill and insight.

None of this is meant to detract from the particular performances which were offered; having heard them, one would not willingly trade the experience—but one hopes for a more adventurous program next time.

CONCERT SCHEDULED

By Symphonetta Band. The Symphonetta Band of Princeton High School will give a concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The program will be "Ballade for Alto Saxophone" by Alfred Reed. Paul Eisler, a member of the junior class, is the featured soloist. He has been playing the instrument for the past six years.

The featured work of the evening will be the "Overture-Fantasia from Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet." Also included on the program will be Bela Bartok's "An Evening in the Village," Homer LaGassey's "Sea Portrait" and "A Manx Overture" by Haydn Wood. The public is invited to attend the concert.

CONDUCTOR AND SOLOIST: Walter R. Horner will conduct the Symphonetta Band in a concert Tuesday at Princeton High School and Paul Eisler will be the featured soloist in "Ballade for Alto Saxophone." A junior at Princeton High, Paul has his own dance band, The Eighth Notes. (Photo by Keith Gierman)

ALWAYS THERE—With YOUR Help

March is Red Cross month around the world. This March the traditional Red Cross drive for members and funds will be missing in Princeton—because last fall's United Fund-Red Cross campaign went over the top. We want to thank those who gave to that campaign at this time. Their contributions, and thousands of hours of service by Red Cross volunteers, made it possible for Red Cross to do these things:

1863-1963

- HOME SERVICE assistance to active servicemen and their families; and to disabled veterans and their families.
- PRINCETON BLOOD DONOR RECRUITING to provide free blood for every person at Princeton Hospital when needed.
- SAFETY INSTRUCTION in the only nation-wide program of training and certification in First Aid and Water Safety.
- DISASTER HELP around the world in peace and war.
- YOUTH SERVICES training for students, by actual experience for older age groups, in the Red Cross tradition of REMEMBER—some Princeton area communities, not members of the United Fund, will be conducting Red Cross drives now and in coming weeks. Join those who have already given by supporting your local Red Cross drive.

VOTE DATE SET

For Expansion Bond Issue. Because state law prohibits an election within 20 days of a primary, the Township School Board has changed the date of the Littlebrook - Riverside expansion bond issue to May 7. Public hearing will be held April 30.

George Grace, finance committee chairman, said that the state had already approved the Board's expansion plans. The Board will market its bonds in May and June in a 30-year issue to spread the cost over more than one generation, Mr. Grace said, adding that the precise amount will be announced shortly.

More than a dozen Township residents attended the Board meeting Thursday night, in comparison to the three or four that usually turn out. The Board distributed to each a two-and-one-half-page report on the state of the budget as of March 30, and a copy of the superintendent's report — both innovations in Board procedure.

Miss Catherine Whyte, nurse at Littlebrook, was granted a sabbatical for study in vision and speech. She is the first Township teacher to be given a year off for study under the Board's new sabbatical program.

Fulmer and Bowers, retained as architects for the Littlebrook-Riverside addition, are still having problems with Kehoe-Downs, contractors for Community Park School. A defective floor in the school's boiler room and water seeping through the concrete floor of the entry prompted a letter from the architects to the Board, asking for action. The Board decided to defer consideration for two weeks.

DISCUSSION PLANNED

On U.S. Trading Policies. The Princeton League of Women Voters has scheduled unit meetings for Tuesday and Wednesday. American trading policies will be the subject of the discussions.

The foreign trade study group, headed by Mrs. E. A. Dowey Jr., will report on U.S. trade with Latin America under the Alliance for Progress and the agricultural policies and effects of the Common Market. The League was active in support of President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Act in 1962.

Unit meetings Tuesday will be held at 95 Longview Drive, 54 Rollingmead and 1 Piedmont Drive. Chairmen are Mrs. Marvin Soffen, Mrs. Parker Hayden and Mrs. Stephen Kidd.

On Wednesday, the meetings will take place at 244 Russell Road, 57 Stonicker Drive, 5 Greenview Avenue and 376 Jefferson Road. Chairmen are Mrs. Seward Hiltner, Mrs. John Williamson, Mrs. Oakes Ames and Mrs. Jonathan Baumonk.

CORNELL CLUB PLANNED

By 16 Founding Fathers. Sixteen alumni have formed a Founding Committee of the Cornell Club of Princeton. A kick-off meeting, to which all interested Cornellians are invited, will be held at 8 p.m. on Friday, April 19, at the Princeton Inn.

Committee members include Walter Barlow, Lawrence Bayern, Richard T. Bentley, John C. Birchfield, John W. Colby, William S. Field, Edward P. Gubb, Thomas M. Jackson, Dr. S. Robert Lewis, Frank Schley, James Stewart, Arnold Strohkorb, Peter Williams, Pedder Wood, Edgar Van Zandt and Maj. Gen. Miles Rever.

Functions of the club, the Committee says, will complement those of the Cornell Club of Trenton. The university estimates that more than 180 men in the Princeton and Princeton Junction area have received all or part of their collegiate training at Cornell. Inquiries may be directed to Gen. Reber, 1051 Kingston Road, WA 4-3878.

EXHIBITION PLANNED

At Studio On Canal. The Studio on the Canal will hold an exhibition of children's drawings and paintings on Saturday from 9:30 to 3. The public is invited to attend.

The display includes work done during the winter term by youngsters between the ages of 8 and 12. A variety of subject matter will be shown, with media ranging from pencil and charcoal to tempera and oil paints.

Children in the class are encouraged to develop their own manner with constructive criticism offered by the instructor. The Studio will begin its spring term of art classes for children and for adults on Monday and will continue them for ten weeks.

CENTER OPENS

For Teens. A neighborhood project that began one icy day during the Christmas holiday season came into full bloom last week with the opening of the new Princeton Youth Center.

The Center, a 20 by 30-foot room on the second floor of the Odd Fellows' Hall, 186 Witherspoon is already too small.

Last Saturday, the first operational Saturday night, the Center had to make a fast "members only" decision to accommodate the boys and girls who wanted to come. So far, 26 have paid the $1 membership fee.

An additional $49 (gross) came in from a benefit basketball game held Friday night.

Cheerful and hospitable though they are, the Center's new quarters are temporary. Sponsors hope that they can find a larger, centrally - located place where they can establish a community-wide Youth Center to serve all teen-agers in the Princeton community.

The steering committee believed, however, that the most important thing was to solve the immediate problem of a neighborhood meeting place, a need that became sharply evident during the Christmas holidays last year. It was a cold vacation from school, with wind and weather so severe that friends could not gather at playgrounds or on front steps. Very few houses in the John-Witherspoon area were big enough for all the teen-agers who had time on their hands and no places to go.

Where Can We Go? Finally, Mrs. Carolyn Adams decided to surrender her Clay Street house to her son's friends, and she turned the whole dwelling over to about 20 or 30 young people for the four final days of the Christmas holiday. They accepted her offer eagerly and spent most of their time there, in and out, until school started.

Mrs. Adams says that she actually enjoyed the experience, but she realized it was only a temporary solution, and so she took the problem to the Rev. David McAlpin, Jr. of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church.

For six weeks, a core committee of adults looked for a place. Then, on February 16, after conferences with A. R. Mihnaul and Ray Holmes, they signed up with the Odd Fellows, who agreed to let, for a small rental, the big second floor room of Douglas Hall, where the lodge holds its meetings.

Crews of teen-agers moved in. A ladder and some left-over paint came from the Borough Housing Authority and walls were soon a pleasing light green with white trim. The floor was painted with grey deck paint. Curtains, contributed by Home Decor, were hung at the tall, old-fashioned windows.

Play or Relax. Contributions began to come: a refrigerator that works, a ping-pong table, card-table and chairs, record player and, to make a conversation corner, a couch, rug, magazine table, lounge chairs and lamps.

About 10 boys and girls worked on the room ("lots of others just watched," one girl laughed) and when the center opened, officers were elected. Larry Madden will serve as president; Penelope Edwards as vice-president; Patricia Rhodes, secretary and David Hill, treasurer. The Youth Committee consists of Anthony Adams, Miss Edwards, Richard Lockhart, Miss Rhodes, Mary Louise Stephenson, Carlton Saunders, Paul Wooten and Michael Underwood.

As Director of the Center, the adult steering committee has named Joseph Moore, 161 John Street, a senior at Central State College, Wilberforce, Ohio, who is taking this term off from college. A lifelong resident of Princeton, Mr. Moore is majoring in social work.

Members of the adult steering committee are the Rev. Mr. McAlpin, Mrs. Adams, Richard Edwards, George Field, Mrs. Edward Lotz and H. Philip Minis.

The Center is open Mondays through Thursdays from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.; Fridays and Saturdays from 6:30 to 11:30 p.m. Young people between the ages of 13 and 18 are eligible for the $1 membership, which entitles them to drop in for games, conversation, reading, listening to records or lounging.

Special events, such as parties, tournaments and dances will be scheduled from time to time. The Center will have adult supervision at all times.

Meanwhile, in its search for larger, permanent space, the steering committee has begun conversations with the trustees of Dorothea House. Groups who are interested in the project include the Council of Community Services, the P.T.A. of Princeton High School, the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association and the new Study Center.

THAT TOUCH OF HOME: Cheerful white curtains with blue and green designs lend an air of bright informality to the new Youth Center room in the Odd Fellows' Hall, 186 Witherspoon Street. Patricia Rhodes, Mary Louise Stephenson and Penelope Edwards, all 10th-graders at Princeton High, do a bit of home-work. More about the Youth Center in story, this page. (Staff Photo)

THREE FINED

For Careless Driving. Three Princeton area residents were fined and two had their licenses revoked last week for careless driving by Township Court Magistrate James S. Hill.

Lucius Owens, 54, of 372 Alexander Street was fined $30. Frank Jefferson, 26, of State Road, and Fredrick R. Sayen II, 17, of the Great Road were each fined $20 and their licenses revoked for 30 days. All three pleaded guilty.

MRS. REIMERS NAMED

As Theatre Party Head. Mrs. Carl Reimers has been named head of the spring theatre party sponsored by the Planned Parenthood Association. The event will take place on the evening of May 4 with the presentation of "Gypsy" at McCarter Theatre.

SIVERD NAMED CHAIRMAN Of Stuart Industry Fund. Clifford D Siverd, 37 Hun Road, has been appointed chairman of the industry committee for the new $3,000,000 Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, currently under construction off the Great Road, it was announced this week by Norbert A Considine, Jr., chairman of the founders fund drive development committee.

Previously, Mrs Marston Morse and Robert E. Clancy had been named chairmen of the alumnae and special gift committees, and Edward R Farley, Jr and Joshua T Vollbrecht were named co-chairmen of the major gifts committee. Four additional committees will be formed soon, Mr Considine reported. To date, the drive has received nearly $500,000 in contributions and pledges.

OFFICERS NAMED By Homemaker Service. The Princeton Community Homemaker Service has appointed officers and committee chairmen for 1963.

Mrs. Edward F Gryzbek has been named president. Other officers are Mrs. Jerome J. Lawson, vice-president; Thomas A. Foody, treasurer; and Mrs. George Stevens, secretary. The committee chairmen are Mrs. Richard Pearson, case policy, Mrs H. William Koch, Jr., homemaker office; Mrs. Benjamin Wright and Dr. Jeanette Munro, homemaker personnel, Mrs. Robert R. Palmer, nominating; Mr. E. H Gaskins, representative to the board of Princeton United Community Fund.

Nominated for three-year terms to the board of trustees were Mrs Gaskins, Mrs. Leonard M. Hymerling, Mrs. Koch, Mrs. Lawson, Mrs. Pearson, Mrs W M Rutter, Mrs. David Shore, Mrs. Harold Sprout and Henry M. Stratton.

Clifford D. Siverd

Last year, 20 homemakers helped 252 families stricken by illness, according to Mrs. Lawrence Stratton, executive director. The total hours increased from 1961 to 1962 from 17,144 to 21,152.

It's New To Us

ing makes it all reversible. Pink mohair makes a collarless coat with big pearl buttons for $22.98, and golden oatmeal tweed makes a sunny spring coat with suede piping around the collar and curved stitching to detail the raglan sleeves.

Off with that coat! Try on White Stag's hip - huggers, those low - slung pants that anchor to your hips with a webbed elastic that just escapes the bottom of a striped jersey pullover.

If you have to wait a little before you can wear these, Bailey's suggests a maternity overblouse in gold and olive paisley print, with mandarin collar and a straightforward cut which you can wear later, as the saying goes.

Another maternity dress is a deep natural hopsacking with charming modern "woodcuts" for its print, and its deep hemline border.

Half sizes at Bailey's are sure to welcome the pure silk print in turquoise with white Chinese line drawings, and the quiet navy crepe two - piece dress that looks like a three-piecer because of its navy skirt, silver-and-navy print top and print-lined navy jacket.

And all sizes will like those Bailey skirts, from the sweeping floor-length ones to wear for being a hostess (Provincial print in navy and maroon against natural, calico, or Madras) to the color-fast denim in faded blue, Loden green or "overall" blue, designed with white nylon cord belt, studded pocket, and front kick pleat.

SPRING ON THE BRINK At Howe's. Nothing like a nursery on a warm afternoon in March to make the sap rise in a gardener's blood. Look at Howe's, the nursery on Main Street in Pennington, and visualize the apples you'll get from the Jonathan, Yellow Transparent or Gold Delicious trees, now secretive and brown, but ready to burst at any minute.

Forsythia, spirea, viburnum, pink or white flowering quince, red-twig dogwood — all in the $2.65 to $3.98 price range, and how little for so much beauty! This is the time to plant shade trees, which is the reason we bring all this up.)

If you are a new home-owner, which means a home-owner with a new home, stop at Howe's and ask about the landscaping service that will prevent you from planting a 40-foot Ponderosa pine in front of your picture window.

For those who already have a start on landscaping, the nursery has such old favorites as hybrid ilex at $8.50, various yews for $4.98, ilex convexa for $2.98 and so on.

Specials during this pre-emergent season include white birch clumps for $9.98, forsythia at three for $5.98. Howe suggests the use of pre-emergent crabgrass killers to prevent instead of cure. However: "the best protection against crabgrass is a vigorous and dense turf," and Howe's is equipped to help you build one.

We like the idea of buying hardy perennials and rock plants in lots of ten or more, thereby saving 10 percent. Columbine and lavender, Virginia blue bells and dwarf bleeding heart, thyme and meadow sweet, sea pink and flekseed — how can you resist.

MANAGED NEWS DEBATED: How tightly should the government control the news during a crisis? For the opinions of Samuel Scuterati (left), Constantino Black and others, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think the government has the right to withhold news or, as has been charged, lie to the people, during a time of crisis, such as in the Cuban situation?

Where asked: Around town.

Samuel Sculcrati, 103 Linden Lane, owner-operator of Campus Taxi: I think if it is in the national interest to keep secrets, it should be done. Of course, if it is something the public should know, it should be told as soon afterward as the government thinks it won't endanger the public safety. One mistake Kennedy did make, in my opinion, was not to invade Cuba. We should have gone all out right there. We wouldn't have to hide the news the way we have been doing if we had cleaned Cuba out.

Constantino Black, 45 Stanley Avenue, owner-operator of Blackie's Taxi: The way I feel about it is the government should know what it is doing. I think President Kennedy knows what should not be kept secret. I think he knows that the public needs to know and I think he should be allowed to control the news if the security of the nation is involved. If the national safety isn't involved, then, I think the public should be told everything.

Mrs. Charles MacPherson, 9 Maple Terrace, housewife: No, by all means. I think the public should be informed of every detail of any crisis. I think they should be told so they will be prepared for what follows.

Mrs. Lillian McManimon, 7 Halsey Road, Kendall Park, housewife: I think the government should tell all because if they didn't the people would panic. The people wouldn't know what to believe.

Bruce Baxter, 17 Evergreen Circle, Princeton High School senior: Yes, I do. I think in times of crises, the government must withhold certain information so that the people would not form opinions which might be incorrect and which might adversely influence the policies of the government.

Mrs. Helen Shope, Ridgewood Avenue, Kingston, housewife: I think the government has a right to withhold news, definitely—I think it is wise in a time of crisis—but there must be some means to do it without lying.

David Hoeldtke, 100 Stockton Street, Seminary student: Yes, I think they have the right to withhold news because I don't think everything should be open to the public. We're two opponents in the cold war. One is almost completely sealed; one has open news and so is open to the Russians as much as it is to the people and therefore I think there has to be some guard on the news. Also, the way our government is set up, people, knowing something, cannot change things immediately. There is a time-lag built in our democratic process between crisis and change and so some restrictions are necessary. Because of this time-lag, it doesn't do the public any good to know everything right away, anyway.

Mrs. Thomas R. Webb, 88 Adams Drive, housewife: I think it depends somewhat on the circumstances. Perhaps it wouldn't be good for the public to know all of the facts at the moment for various political reasons. I think our officials have to be trusted to use their best judgment during a time of crisis. After all, we voted for them and put them in office; we should be able to trust them. If we can't, who can we trust? I do think there are many times when this country says much too much.

Mrs. William R. Davis, Pennington, housewife: Yes, a certain amount. I think the government has talked too much the last few months. I think a certain amount of news shoul be released to the public but not the volume that has been released recently. I think the government is saying more than it needs to.

Eugene Doherty, 261 Ewing Street, teacher: Yes, I think in a crisis the government has a right to do anything for the national defense, safety and security of the people.

Mrs. Zandra S. Ross, Sussex, physical therapist: Yes, I do because I don't think all the people can be correctly informed in a crisis. There is extra confusion in a crisis, what with news coming from different directions. When it can be safetly done, in the opinion of the government, all the news can be released, but not when it may injure the country.

Ludwig Rabenfeld, 49 Pardoe Road, assistant director, Textile Research Industry: Within reasonable limitations, I feel the government does have the right to withhold news from the general public when such action is felt to be to the best advantage to the national security. As a general policy, of course, this is a very dangerous practice and the definition of "national crisis" as well as the "time of crisis" becomes crucial.

Miss Nancy Smyth, 250 Hawthorne Avenue, secretary: Yes, if it's something important, the government should hold back because if the people get it, it will become common knowledge and the people who shouldn't have access to it will have it also.

Robert Brackney, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., manager of I.B.M. general accounting department: When it is essential to the security of this nation, yes, because I suspect the release of some information can be detrimental to our national security.

Mrs. Bernard DeVido, Brunswick Pike, secretary at First National Bank: Yes, I think the government has that right if it would jeopardize, in its opinion, the safety of the nation.

W. K. Douglas, Greencastle, Ind., IBM manager: No, sir, I don't because I think the people should have the truth so they can adequately judge the situation themselves.

Censorship Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Friday evening I too took my family to see "David and Lisa" and was privileged to see also "Legends of Love." The short was so utterly ridiculous that it was truly amusing.

Certainly, I found nothing in it offensive; it was too absurd. Over the past few years I have become quite fond of the collandisic shorts the Garden Theatre usually gives us before the main feature, and "Legends of Love" seemed to me a classic of its kind.

Nevertheless, I would never challenge the right of Mrs. Dailey and others to be offended by the film, and to prohibit their families from seeing it. On the other hand, I object to the attempts of Mrs. Dailey and others to prohibit anyone else from seeing it.

I find censorship of any kind despicable, and would certainly wholeheartedly oppose any attempt to draw up a code for judging acceptable and unacceptable entertainment. If "Legends of Love" seemed so objectionable to Mrs. Dailey, why was she not among those that left?

Finally, I would like to assure the management of the Garden Theatre that there is at least one parent in the community who will not be avoiding movies or preventing others from attending them regardless of their character. I only regret that the management was prevailed upon to withdraw the film, and hope that in the future they will ignore such pressure.

BRYAN D. MANGRUM

How to Avoid Short Subjects.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I was not drawn to take my children to see "David and Lisa." (Funny, it never occurred to me that a film about two disturbed adolescents was wholesome family fare), and I did not see the short subject which caused all the furor.

Maybe it's too bad; my ten-year-old daughter might have learned something she hasn't already deduced from songs sung on the school bus (I understand there's a new record being released with that name) or seen scribbled on the sidewalks of our respectable community. Lacking the opportunity to form my own opinion on the subject of this movie, I am willing to take the word of the outraged citizenry that the short was a stinker.

However, now that morality has won out, and the dreadful film on love equals sex has been withdrawn by the Garden management, may I point out that a short subject, like the second half of a double feature, though included in the price of admission, is not compulsory. There are a number of ways to escape:

A) You can call the theatre and find out the schedule. B) Having neglected to take this precaution, if the part of the show you don't want to see (for instance, news-reels) comes first, or during, you can take a stroll through the lobby, to the water-cooler, or into the men's room (unless you happen to be a lady.) C) If the objectionable section is shown after the movie you intended to witness, you can get up and go home. Always remember, you are not shackled to the seat.

These suggestions are made in all sincerity to those theatre-goers who do not want to learn about skiing in lower Tasmania, or how to trap a mongoose in Arizona, as well as to those wise ones of the love-versus-sex school of thought.

Of course, standards must be maintained. This is Princeton, after all. So listen, mister, drop that copy of Playboy, and hand me my hatchet—I'm off to the Nassau Tavern—er—Inn.

By-Pass Alignment Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I sympathize with Princeton's desire for a Route 206 By-pass to alleviate its traffic problem. However, I am opposed to the bill presented by Sen. Ridolfi before the State Legislature on the grounds that it does not specify any route for the By-pass.

One municipality does not have the moral or legal right to solve its problems at the expense of neighboring municipalities (i.e. South Brunswick and Franklin Townships). In the case of South Brunswick Township, one of the tentative highway department alignments for this By-pass would cut through the proposed Henry Phipps estate research center.

Over two years of work and planning has been put into this project by officials of South Brunswick. Sen. Ridolfo places this important project in jeopardy by pressing for passage of his bill without incorporating a specific alignment which would be mutually satisfactory to all the municipalities concerned.

Need for Housing Obvious.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter written to the Mayor and Council:

"I regret that illness prevented my presence at the Borough Council meeting on March 12th when my letter asking the Mayor and Council to reconsider their rejection of a publicly assisted housing project on Harrison Street was discussed. After reading all the press reports of this meeting I am still puzzled by the attitude of the Borough authorities.

"It should be noted, in the first place that the Housing Authority was not asking for specific and final approval of its proposal, but only for the right to begin the necessary investigation of the feasibility and need for 50 housing units on the Harrison Street site. Without such an investigation, and without public hearing, it is difficult to understand how the Mayor and Council could make an informed decision.

"The chief arguments against the proposal seem to have been that the land costs too much, that there is no need for more public housing, and that public opinion is against such projects.

"The cost of the land would be borne by the Federal Government, if it decided to support the proposal. The Borough could only profit from a favorable decision. It would gain income (10% of rentals); it would avoid a large bill ($11,000 plus interest) for rejected housing studies; it would have an opportunity to acquire park space in a rapidly growing area for little or nothing.

"The need is obvious. Existing private housing does not take care of the elderly, or of lower middle income groups, and building more single family dwellings (for which the Harrison Street area is now zoned) will not solve the problems of these people.

"It is shocking that so many of our teachers have to live in other communities — often quite distant communities. It is equally shocking that efforts to reduce the crowding in the John-Witherspoon area are thwarted by the fact that residents of the area who could afford better housing cannot find it.

"As for public opinion, the public was given no opportunity to form an opinion on this particular project. Nor have the people of Princeton ever expressed their views on the general issue of public housing.

"Local and individual opposition to specific proposals does not mean that a majority of our voters oppose any kind of public housing. I have enough confidence in this community to believe that it recognizes its obligations in this area.

"There is one more issue to be faced—that of segregation. Publicly assisted housing must be, and is, desegregated. Some people may oppose public housing because it helps to break down the pattern of residential segregation which still prevails in Princeton.

"Such an attitude is entirely contrary to the official policy of the Borough under all recent administrations and to the views of responsible citizens of all political parties. It should not, and I trust that it does not, have any influence on the decisions of our governing bodies.

"Otherwise, I see no evidence of a public opinion which opposes the plans of the Housing Authority. Instead I find warm support for the Harrison Street proposal from residents in all parts of the Borough. I am sure that citizens of the Borough would vote overwhelmingly in favor of the development if they ever had a chance to do so."

Rescue League Still Active.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following outline is submitted in an attempt to clarify the position of the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League under the present confusing circumstances.

For 11 years (1951-1961), the League operated under an agreement with the Lawrence Hospital for Animals which enabled the League to take care of all stray cats and dogs from Princeton Township, Borough and the surrounding area. It assumed responsibility for all payments, handled all details and also operated both an Adoption and a Lost and Found Service. Neither Princeton Township or Borough had any problems, though the care of stray and injured animals for 7 days is a municipal responsibility.

However, both municipalities cooperated fully with police assistance and also paid the League annually an amount approximately equal to the cost of their animals for the previous year. This enabled the League to use its own funds, received from dues and contributions, for the additional humane work of taking care of stray and injured animals from surrounding towns having no shelters but especially to operate our Adoption Service, which is expensive.

1962 proved to be a very critical year for two reasons: 1) The long drawn-out controversy regarding the Township Dog Ordinance. 2) The League was requested by the Lawrence Hospital to withdraw its Adoption Service as soon as feasible.

As of January 1, 1963, both of the above complications had been concluded but the resulting picture is far different from the almost ideal situation which existed for the first 11 years. Now the Township and Borough each have a contract direct with the Lawrence Hospital so that only the Warden and Police are authorized to take all animals there, where they receive medical care, if needed, and are boarded for the legal seven-day holding period. Then some unclaimed animals may be put to sleep until such time as we can arrange to resume our Adoption Service elsewhere.

The community is in urgent need of this humane service so we endeavored to build and operate, on a year to year basis, a small shelter of our own near Princeton for the sole purpose of continuing this Adoption work.

Under this new plan, after the seven-day waiting period at the Lawrence Hospital, the Township Dog Warden would bring to our shelter unclaimed healthy dogs and cats from both Princeton Township and Borough to await adoption. They would then be under League control and shown to potential adopters by appointment with Mrs. A. C. Graves, our Executive Secretary, who is also continuing our Lost and Found Service.

As soon as a suitable location can be found, the League

MAY I HAVE A WORD WITH YOU

ABOUT YOUR PERSONAL BANKING?

Because the Princeton Bank was founded over a century and a quarter ago, it has served many generations of Princetonians.

And during the passing of the years it came to be described as "the carriage trade bank".

We never objected to having the confidence of people with above average incomes and we never will.

But the Princeton Bank has become much more. Today it is truly everybody's Bank.

Banking services have been broadened along with the expansion of the Princeton area. There is now a Practical Banking service at the Princeton Bank for every man, woman and child of the greater Princeton community.

Business men and research organizations find many new and helpful services for them at the Princeton Bank. They appreciate the advantages to them of a Practical Banking outlook. So will you.

With many new services now available to you we invite you to visit any of the three convenient locations of the Princeton Bank and become better acquainted. We invite you to place your Personal Banking responsibilities in the Princeton Bank, where community confidence has been on deposit for over a hundred and twenty-eight years.

Our officers and service associates will be pleased to welcome you personally and assist you in every way.

Mr. McDowell's first enterprise was the original "Smugglers' Shop" in Ocean City which he started eight years ago. He opened the doors of his second enterprise, "The Country Mouse" at 164 Nassau in 1960.

In keeping with Bookbinders' reputation as a sea-food restaurant, the new "Smugglers' Shop" will have a nautical motif, similar to the atmosphere in the Ocean City shop. For the new spot in The Tuckahoe Inn, Mr. McDowell will draw upon Indian as well as nautical themes.

Formerly a teacher in the art department at Princeton High School, Mr. McDowell resigned his teaching post this spring to devote full-time to his business enterprises.

FLY BEFORE YOU BUY
Aerial View Offered. Houghton Real Estate of 170 Nassau Street will give potential customers an aerial view of their future homesite.

Beginning in early May, the firm will fly the interested buyer over "Westwinds," a community of homes now under construction, to permit him to relate his future homesite to the Princeton community and the surrounding areas. Jack Houghton, a member of the company, said the proposed project "is a distinctive concept of town-country living and one that calls for an unusual sales approach."

"Westwinds" will consist of some 75 homes priced in the $30,000 to $50,000 range and designed in the colonial and traditional manner. The project has been planned so that there will not be duplication of homes.

In addition to minimum one-acre plots, the homeowners will have a 7½-acre natural park for their exclusive use. The 110-acre tract is located in Montgomery Township, about eight miles from the center of Princeton.

Want better posture and fancy-free foot comfort?

You should have a professional pedicure at least once a month, says health and beauty authority Eloise Johnson of Dallas, founder of the Professional Pedicure Institute.

Today's leading beauty salons employ professional pedicurists, authorities on safe care and good grooming of the foot.

Yet professional pedicures were awkward, time-consuming tasks until Mrs. Johnson invented the Pedi-Cab, above, a new portable beautifier complete with an individual sanitary footbath and relaxing foot vibrators. Pedi-Cab is destined to become a popular feature of beauty salons everywhere. A new model is currently being introduced at

ROLLER-COASTER SEASON

For the Coach's Wife. One of the hottest seats in town this past winter was occupied by Mrs. Willem van Breda Kolff, wife of Princeton's new basketball coach. She watched hopes soar, sink and then soar again as her husband brought his first Princeton team down to the wire with ten straight victories and the Ivy League title.

She knows only too well that her husband does a thousand deaths at every game. She usually attends, too.

"Butch yells at the players and the officials and gets it out of his system. He gets rid of all his tension on the bench . . . he doesn't bring any of it home," Florence van Breda Kolff says in a kind of wonder.

A veteran of 12 years as a coach's wife, and four years when he was a New York Knickerbocker star, she added, "I think it was more exciting than any other season. We'd lost only a few . . . then we lost the Yale game.

"That was the hardest thing for Butch to take. That was the low point in his whole career! We lost by only a point. And when Cornell beat us, all of our Ivy League hopes were dashed. Then there was this wonderful comeback!"

"We" and "our" place Mrs. van Breda Kolff as a non-playing member of the team. She knows almost as much about the players as her husband does.

In fact, so do the children. "When the team loses, big tears roll down the girls' faces." Mrs. van Breda Kolff's eyes crinkled with amusement.

"Jan is usually on the bench and he jumps up when his father does and glares at the officials. They're in it heart and soul."

Jan Like a Mascot. All four van Breda Kolff children show up at practice. Eleven-year-old Jan, slim and bright-eyed, attended every day. A somewhat lighter schedule was adopted by the twins, Karen and Kristina, 13, and by Kaatje, 9.

"Jan has taken several trips with the team," Mrs. van Breda Kolff went on. "The boys seem to consider him a sort of mascot. They even asked, 'can't we have Jan in the picture?' when they were posing for a group photograph." She laughed. "They're a great team. Butch loves his boys."

"We took the children to the Palestra for the St. Joe's game. There was no holding them back! But they had to go to school the next day. I've never heard anything like the ovation Bill Bradley received there.

"You know, all of this doesn't seem to go to his head at all. He hasn't taken advantage of his fame. He's a real down-homer. He even teaches Sunday School at the Presbyterian Church. He's a hero to the kids . . . but sometimes I think that Hyland is Jan's real hero."

"I believe there are few families that can say they participate in the father's job as we do. It even spills over into the children's school life.

"At Valley Road School, the twins get teased about their basketball skill. 'Bill Bradley doesn't play like that!' And on the morning after a game, the class offers congratulations or condolences. 'Boy, you lost a tough one last night!' The kids are sort of wonderful."

Art Teacher, Not Athlete. Mrs. van Breda Kolff, who is tall and slim, winces at the thought of touching a basketball herself. "I think I was about number seven in back of the team at Collingswood High."

A biology major at Mary Washington College, her inclination now runs towards art "and someday, when I've finished just plain enjoying Princeton, I'm going to go back to art teaching." At present she's studying painting with a group of other faculty wives under Douglas Pederson.

"I DON'T KNOW WHERE THE WINTER WENT!" Mrs. Willem van Breda Kolff, wife of Princeton's new and successful basketball coach, who went through the basketball season with her fingers crossed. (Story this page.)

"It is so wonderful to be in Princeton," she says happily. "Lafayette was the hard years. I was a real homebody. The children were small and Butch was always away coaching or scouting.

"He's always been off a lot . . . when he was with the Knicks, the team played 60 games a year! That's why it is so great to be here . . . though if somebody had told me a year ago that the six of us could live in a five-room apartment, I would have laughed.

"There just isn't enough time in the day to take advantage of all the things there are to do here." The past seven years were spent in a town near Hofstra College. "We've missed the college environment. It's good to be back in it."

She looked through her Lakeside Apartment window at the budding spring morning. "I just don't know where the winter went. It's been so exciting!"

Both Were Marines. She runs a full house. "Butch is a real people lover. He likes them around 24 hours a day—before a game, after a game, they're always welcome." Asked about her daily chores, she said, "I enjoy cooking — but Butch's clam chowder is the most."

Proximity being everything, Mrs. van Breda Kolff met her husband in the Marines. They were stationed at Cherry Point, N. C., where she was a radio operator. Shortly after they were married in 1945 he went to Japan. "So we didn't really settle down until Butch enrolled at Princeton."

The name "Butch" she explained with a twinkle, comes from the Dutch "broer," meaning Sunny, or brother or bud. "His father called him "Broer" and his friends changed it to "Butch." In the service, he was called Van until some Jersey friend came along and hollered "Hi, Butch!" and it was Butch ever since."

All of their Princeton friends are concerned with academic problems and strivings, but with the van Breda Kolffs, the single topic is basketball—and its variants. "Butch has finished most of his seasons successfully — though there have been a few bad years with records like 12-13 — but never a losing streak for several years in a row."

If you had it to do over again, would you marry a basketball coach?

"If I had it to do over, I'd marry a basketball coach!"

Spectator Sports

Half a dozen athletic events which will draw large crowds are on Princeton's 1963 spring schedule.

The first three are regattas, climaxed by varsity races between Princeton and Rutgers on April 13, Princeton and Navy on the 20th, with the Child's Cup (Princeton, Penn, Columbia) set for the 27th. Saturday sunshine on these occasions will send thousands to the banks of Carnegie.

The Heptagonal Games, involving the track teams of the eight Ivy colleges plus Army and Navy, will be staged in Palmer Stadium on Saturday, May 11. They return to Princeton for the first time since 1955.

The annual alumni parade and Yale baseball game are later than usual this year — Saturday, June 15. The week beginning June 17 will be marked by the NCAA tennis championships, which will bring the nation's best college players to Princeton for singles and doubles play.

SPRING PICTURE MIXED

Two Titles Likely. Those perennial Princeton powerhouses, lacrosse and tennis, again are the bright buds in the Tigers' flower garden. Coach John Conroy's defending champions (11-0 in 1962) are expected to win the Eastern Association Tennis title for a third straight year.

Princeton last lost a match on the courts in May, 1960, and has numbered strong Harvard and Yale teams among the 23 opponents it has dominated since that time. Depth is a major factor working for Conroy and contrary to every other spring team delayed by the long, cold winter, the racket squad is making steady progress because of the availability of all-weather courts. Icing for the cake this season will be provided by the staging in Princeton of the national intercollegiates, scheduled for the third week in June.

Lacrosse Game Saturday. The season's earliest bloom will be the appearance Saturday of Ferris Thompsen's lacrosse team, scheduled to meet Maryland at 2 30 on Poe Field. The Terrapins, one of the nation's "Big Four" are favored but a Princeton victory over them or in one of the succeeding games against Johns Hopkins, Army and Navy may be achieved.

Thomsen's ten has balance this year — a combination of veteran strength and a number of promising sophomores. Captain Tim Callard, an all-American as a junior, heads a strong defense, With Webb Harrison in the goal after earning second all-Ivy honors the first season he played the sport, the Tigers have the ability to make a thin lead stand up — often the true test of a winning team.

Good Defense Not Contagious. If some of the lacrosse team's ability to keep the opposition from scoring could rub off on the ball team, Coach Eddie Donovan's prospects for a winning season would be brighter. Almost half the runs the Tiger nine allowed last spring were unearned — a performance shaky enough to take the heart out of any pitcher.

Actually, Princeton has to fill only three gaps by graduation, a situation that would normally portend a successful year, particularly when none of the departing veterans was a dependable hurler. The trio of vacancies was created by the graduation of Captain Jack Whitehouse, a three - year veteran at short, and outfielders Roger Hoit and Mike Devine.

Whitehouse and Devine were — somewhat surprisingly, to be blunt about it — signed hy the Detroit Tigers. Both had fine arms but neither could hit routine college pitching or make the all-Eastern League team, even in their senior years.

The big problem is in the center of the infield, where a replacement for Whitehouse must be found at short and a solid fielding second baseman is needed. Captain Don Fudge's normal position is first base, but he can hit and may hold down an outfield berth if sophomore Pete Riley develops as an infielder.

Three varsity pitchers with earned run averages ranging from 1.67 to 2.31 are back. Gerry Skey, who won four of Princeton seven games last spring, has marked ability. Paul Lahti proved a good reliever and Emile Rosenberg has potential.

Steve Depperman, 5-1 last season with the freshmen, is the best of the sophomore crop. Emerson Dickman's return to the coaching staff will help the pitchers become the Tigers' greatest asset this season, but if the hitting and fielding don't improve, the .500 mark will remain a mirage.

The schedule opens Tuesday against Temple at Philadelphia. The home opener will be played next Thursday at 2:30 on Clarke field against Fordham, with Maine and Colgate here Friday and Saturday.

Crew, Trackmen Hopeful. A winning season for the track team, which invariably lives up to its potential under the guidance of Pete Morgan and Irwin Weiss, is likely again, with only Harvard and Yale out of the Tigers' class. The steady improvement in the sport achieved during the past decade by the skilled, enthusiastic coaching combine was climaxed last spring with a one-sided triumph over Cornell — Princeton's first in 15 years.

Columbia will be here on Saturday, April 13, to open the schedule. Rutgers, Penn, Harvard, Yale and Cornell are the other dual meet opponents, with the Heptagonals set for Palmer Stadium on May 11.

A taller, heavier crew than he had a year ago is the basis for Dutch Schoch's optimism. Sophomore strength dast year's freshmen were fifth in a big field at Syracuse in the national regatta) is an asset but the deep ice that locked Carnegie all winter and did not break up until mid-March has been a marked handicap.

The first race of the season is set for April 13 against Rutgers. Navy is next, followed by Penn and Columbia in the Child's Cup — the crew's last 1963 race at home. The Compton Cup regatta will be staged on the Charles River on May 4, the Carnegie Cup race is set for Lake Cayuga on May 11, followed by the sprint championships on Worcester's Lake Quinsigammond May 18.

HANK SCHMIDT HONORED

Wins Wolman Award. Hank Schmidt, captain and leading scorer of the Princeton High School basketball team this season, was presented with the Wolman Award Monday night at a special assembly held at the school auditorium. The award is the highest made to a PHS basketball player.

Guest speaker at the affair was William van Breda Kolff, coach of the Princeton University basketball team. His team captain, Art Hyland, was also present.

Members of the PHS team which compiled a fine 14-4 record this season were presented with varsity letters. Only two members of the starting team, Schmidt and John Kowalski, will be lost by graduation.

In addition to these two, letters were presented to Larry Madden, Jim Case, Dave Hill, Tom Waters, Tom Sculerati, Pete Webber, Brad Mount, Jonathon Claridge and managers Mark Slange and John Loeser.

Letter winners of assistant coach George Povilaitis' junior varsity club (12-6) include Roger Madden, Kerry Klink, Pete Heiberger, Anthony Adams, Orie Tuck, Bob Mooney, Chris Schmidt, Dave Spainhour, Gil Turner, Albert Underwood, Jim Jones, Dave Turner, Doug Hoffman, Ken Ward, Lloyd Tucker, and manager Mark Case.

The freshman team, coached by Harry Zoll, posted an excellent 12-2 record.

IMPROVEMENT PREDICTED

By PHS Baseball Coach. As a rule, baseball coaches tend to have an optimistic outlook in making spring predictions and Princeton High School coach Harry Zoll is no exception. "We should do a little better this year," he said, after a critical evaluation of his team's strong and weak spots.

Once again, pitching will be the big question mark. Zoll maintains that pitching counts 80 percent in high school ball, particularly in the early part of the season when batters are mostly impotent from inexperience or rusty from a year-long layoff. "If we get some pitching, we'll be all right," he feels.

To Jack Rosso will fall the burden of providing the Little Tigers with adequate hurling. His burden will be doubly heavy because Jack, up from the jayvee squad, is untested. Nevertheless, Zoll says that the slender senior will be our "number one pitcher."

Rosso will be backed up by seniors Tom Stemmle and Dave Shields. Both have pitched varsity ball, but each falls short of the stopper Zoll is searching for. Stemmle has determination, throws hard but lacks control; Shields is effective only in relief. He cannot go the distance.

Corvino Is Key. Even before his team engaged in its first outdoor practice, Zoll said that the key to any PHS success may well lie with a player he knows absolutely nothing about. In pinning a lot of hope on Dan Corvino, a senior transfer from Notre Dame High School, Zoll reported that all he knew about him was that he was supposed to have played some good ball for Notre Dame and that he had done some pitching.

Additional mound support may come from Leonard Olenzack. Only a sophomore, Olenzack comes up highly recommended by freshman coach Mike Radice. "He might work out as a pitcher and we'll give him every chance," said Zoll.

Among the Blue and White's strong points, the best would have to be Ray Britton, captain and centerfielder. Although small in stature, Britton led the Little Tigers last year in batting and was a standout performer in the field. Now, starting his third year as a varsity player, Britton should easily be one of the best in the area, according to Zoll.

Other returning veterans include first baseman Jimmy Case, a junior, and catcher Paul Walstad, a sophomore. "Case is a good boy," commented Zoll, "but he'll do an even better job next year. The same is true of Walstad; he'll do a good job for us this season, but watch him when he is a junior and senior."

Senior Tom Sculerati and Dave Muni, a junior, both up from the jayvee squad, will form part of the nucleous around which Zoll plans to build his team. Muni will take over at the all-important shortstop position and Sculerati will play next to him at third.

Ken Ward, a sophomore, will get a shot at second base. "He is a real hustler," said Zoll. "He has a lot of spirit and enthusiasm and he looks like he's going to be a real go-getter." With obvious relish, Zoll

Mrs. Frothingham Wins

Mrs. David Frothingham of Elm Lane won the annual Princeton Women's Squash Rackets Association tournament last week at the Pretty Brook Club. Mrs. Frothingham defeated Mrs. Hallet Johnson in the finals.

Mrs. Jane Griswold won the consolation by defeating Mrs. J. P. Cleaver, while Mrs. Karl Light was awarded a cup as the most improved player of the year. Mrs. Simeon Ifutner was elected president of the association for two years at the annual meeting following the tournament.

In New Jersey there are 800 lakes and 1400 miles of trout streams. Each year, New Jersey waters are stocked with 750,000 rainbow, brown and brook trout, bass and perch. Deep sea and surf fishing off the Jersey coast is well-known. There are thousands of acres of well-stocked public and private hunting grounds. Rabbits, pheasants and deer are most plentiful. For duck hunters, there are 132 miles of coastal lands for their use while lovers of nature can choose from 23 state parks and 12 state forests with 182,000 acres in which to roam.

Recreational opportunities make living more fun and New Jersey most certainly offers a great variety of things to do. When you know New Jersey, you know it's great!

added that the only senior on his current infield will be Sculerati.

The outfield, in turn, has been strengthened by the return of husky Jack Britton (no relation to Ray) who had played in the Little Tiger outfield as a sophomore but skipped his junior year. Dave Shields, when not relieving, will occupy the third outfield position.

Last year, PHS, hamstrung by a weak pitching staff, won only 4 of 14 outings. This spring, Zoll hopes to win at least half of the expanded 19-game schedule which will get underway Friday, April 5.

BOWLING NOTES

By-Pass Abgaed in 1948

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Due to the present conversations relative to the exact location of the future Princeton by-pass I feel it my duty as former Chairman of the Princeton Township Planning Board (1948-1958) to state the location was clearly shown west of Kingston along the Millstone River as early as 1948.

A few years later, as the result of direct communication between the Mercer County Planning Board, the Princeton Township Planning Board and the State Highway Department, a land subdivision in Princeton Township was approved in which the location of the by-pass right-of-way was confirmed and defined with a possible connection between the by-pass and Kingston-Rosedale Road (Terhune Road).

That solution was still in existence in 1958. Since then, perhaps under cover of darkness, the by-pass was moved north of Kingston.

The further away from Princeton, the least effective for Nassau Street and the longer the length which will result in greatest cost — only several millions more . . . Hurray'" . . . ?

leaders have a total of 52 points to Mercer's 41 and third place Rocky Hill's 40.

Bill Whatley captured single-game scoring honors with a total of 225 plus. He was followed by Joe Cavanaugh, 207; Bill Duvall, 202, and Iggy McHugh, 201.

SANNINO WINS, LOSES

In Separate Tournaments. Sannino A. C. was 1-1 in tournament play and 28-5 overall at the end of another basketball filled week for the tireless Princeton quintet.

By defeating Mulvaney's of Newark, 85-82, last Thursday, Sannino advanced to the quarter-finals in the 17th annual Ironbound Invitational Tournament and will meet the Newark YMCA team Saturday evening at 9. All games for the Ironbound classic, a well-known tournament in which teams from the New York City metropolitan area and New Jersey compete, are played at the Red Shield Boys Club in Newark.

Playing without the services of its high-scoring center, Wally Mischler, Sannino was bumped from the Edison Tournament last week when it dropped a 96-85 decision to the Plainfield Hibernians, in the semi-final round. High for the losers was Dick Cooper with 24.

Player-coach Danny Scuderati, ruling his team in tournaments at a fast-break clip, announced that Sannino would also play in the Gold Watch Tourney. To fill in the gap left by Larry Ivan, temporarily sidelined with a sprained ankle, Scuderati has added to the roster Jim Sattlewhite, 6-7 star from the Eastern Basketball League.

George Blaney, former New York Knickerbocker player and a member of the starting five of the Trenton Colonials, scored 26 points to lead Mulvaney to a 39-38 margin at the half. Sannino countered with some fine play by Sattlewhite and former Princeton University standout Carl Belz under the boards to stay in contention.

The second half scoring of Belz, Sattlewhite and Mischler, who combined for 36 points, enabled Sannino to pull to a 78-69 lead early in the final quarter. The losers managed to narrow the deficit to three, but Sannino froze the ball for the final two minutes, preserving its hard-won victory.

TEE OFF RAIN OR SHINE

At Pennington Range. Rain and golf don't mix. Tony Midiri, former golf professional and present owner of the driving range on Route 69, midway between the Pennington Market and the Pennington Circle, has overcome the indifference of nature by erecting a canopy over his driving tees. Now golf bulls and duffers alike can yell "fore" at the weather.

For those who like a little more exercise, Mr. Midiri last year installed a nine-hole pitch-and-putt course. For those who feel the need of instruction, Mr. Midiri will be on hand every day to give lessons. He reported that he expects to have everything ready by Monday.

LACROSSE, ANYONE?

Boys Form Own Team. When Spencer Willard moved here from Baltimore this year, where the sport of lacrosse is as much a part of the scene as are the city's marble steps, he was appalled to discover the sport was not available to high school boys. The gap no longer exists.

With Spencer, a PHS freshman, serving as president, the Princeton Lacrosse Club has been formed. For a $5 membership fee, the club will supply all equipment except a helmet. The club has 15 members at the moment and is open to any Princeton High School student.

Ken Parker, a Seminary student and a former lacrosse player at Middlebury, has volunteered to serve as coach. PHS juniors Sam Stewart and Mike Hawk serve as vice-president and secretary-treasurer. John Zier, who played lacrosse at Hun, is the only other member, in addition to Spencer, to have played the sport previously.

The Princeton Lacrosse Club will play its first game Saturday when it travels to Montclair for a 10 a.m. contest with Montclair HS. It will scrimmage the Lawrenceville School varsity April 10 and is making final arrangements for a contest with the Princeton University B squad. A number of additional matches are planned.

The organization practices daily except Sunday. After Monday, it will hold its practice sessions at Community Park.

Co-Captains Named

Tom Waters, 6-3 ace rebounder, and Dave Hill 5-9 playmaker, have been named co-captains of the 1964 Princeton High School basketball team.

Waters, who started the season on the bench, came on as the season progressed to rank as the team's sixth man and combined with the departing John Kuwalski to help the Little Tigers control the boards. Hill hit double figures only once in the campaign but he played steady ball to average 5.1 points per game. His fine ball-handling and playmaking were a big plus in the control style employed with great success by PHS.

earlier deposits each day, the late deposit rate was 66⅔. The rate now is 28⅓, a new low for this area.

Mr. Quick's report was made to the Princeton NIMS (Nationwide Improved Mail Service) Council at a luncheon meeting held at Educational Testing Service. J.P. Meyer, president of the Chamber of Commerce and manager of Bamberger's-Princeton, spoke on postal facilities here, while R.L. Lenhart discussed the post office's continuing space problems and expansion possibilities.

DIAL PHONES PROGRESS

In Hopewell, Pennington. About ten weeks remain before the scheduled cut-over in Hopewell and Pennington from manual service to dial telephones. It is scheduled for mid-June.

More than 4,500 customers of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. will benefit from the change. Frames of dial equipment have been installed in the newly-built central office buildings in both communities.

Western Electric has started the wiring of all connections. This process, together with testing, will be finished late this spring.

More than 145,000 feet of outside cable will be placed in the two central office areas. The Hopewell office is at 74-76 Broad Street, the Pennington office at 15 Lanning Avenue.

POST OFFICE ASKS BIDS

For Shopping Center Branch. The Post Office is seeking bids to conduct its contract station at the Princeton Shopping Center for a three-year period beginning July 1. The sealed bids will be accepted until 2 p.m. Friday, April 5.

Business at the station includes stamp sales, parcel post, certified and registered mail acceptances and the issuance of money orders. Hours for the station are 9 to 5 Monday through Friday, and 9 until noon on Saturday.

News Of The CHURCHES

MEMORIAL TO DR. ERDMAN

At University Chapel. A modern stained glass window in memory of the Rev. Dr Charles R Erdman has been installed on the south side of University Chapel, facing McCosh Hall.

Dr. Erdman, a member of the Princeton class of 1883, was former pastor of First Presbyterian Church and longtime professor of practical theology at Princeton Theological Seminary. During the 1920's, he served a term as moderator of the Presbyterian Church, USA, the denomination's highest office.

The five-paneled window, executed in bright colors, depicts St. Paul, St. Athanasius, Thomas Aquinas, John Calvin and Jonathan Edwards. Designed by Henry L. Willett of Philadelphia, the window follows the representations conceived by Albert S. Friend, late professor of art at Princeton.

Dean Ernest Cordon describes the window as an excellent example of the new trend in stained glass. Located in the upper level of the chapel, its clear, strong colors are in strong contrast with the darker, "Hamburg-style" windows below.

The new window follows the tradition of Gothic churches, which commemorate men of activity on the north wall and devote the south side to theological contemplation.

Only one chapel window remains to be filled. According to Dean Gordon, the funds have been donated and a design on the theme of poetry is being drawn. Installation will be in the near future.

"FIX-UP" COMPLETED

At Kingston Methodist. Members of Kingston Methodist Church have just completed a major remodeling program on a "do-it-yourself" basis.

Harold Davall served as chairman, assisted by James Edwards, Mrs. Wilbur Potts and Leonard Owen.

A small wing was added for the Sunday School and nursery; the kitchen was remodeled and painted; the church was rewired and the sanctuary and fellowship hall were painted.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

For Girl Scout Meeting. Miss Ann Henry of Bamberger's in Newark will discuss and demonstrate basic wardrobe needs for teenage girls at the meeting of Girl Scout Troop Number Four. The meeting will take place this Thursday at Community Park School to complete requirements for the troop's clothing badge.

Mrs. Charles Brown, manager of the children's area of Bamberger's in Princeton, made the arrangements for the meeting. Mrs. D. H. Pritchard, a troop mother, will act as narrator for the program.

Troop members have made recent visits to the Princeton Day Nursery, Union Industrial Home in Trenton and Riverview in West Trenton. The girls have presented entertainment and refreshments as part of their service projects.

TOWNSHIP SETS PROGRAM

For Bike Safety, Inspection. The 1963 Bicycle Safety Program for Princeton Township will start Monday and continue through April 26. Norman Van Arsdalen, Director of Physical Education, is in charge.

The first phase will consist of bicycle safety assemblies which will be held in each of the Township schools next week. Bicycle inspection is scheduled to begin April 22.

The safety equipment of every child's bicycle will be closely checked by members of the police department. Each bicycle will be registered as protection in the event of theft.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED

At Nassau Nursery School. The Nassau Cooperative Nursery School, which is currently accepting applications for the 1963-64 academic year, is offering scholarships.

The interracial and non-sectarian school holds three separate classes for 3- and 4-year-olds. The classes are conducted by professionally-trained men and women. Sessions are held mornings five days a week at the Friends First Day School on Quaker Road. Those wishing further information may contact Mrs. Kenneth Schwartz at SW 9-1418.

CONGRESS SCHEDULED

For Exchange Students. Some 350 students from five continents will assemble on the Princeton University campus Saturday to begin a week-long meeting of the 15th Annual International Congress of the Association of International Exchange Students in Economics and Commerce.

The purposes of the organization are to promote international understanding among university students and to provide opportunities for business and economics trainees to enlarge their experience through summer training in foreign countries. At present, 225 universities from 38 countries are participating in exchanging some 3,500 traineeships.

Students meeting at Princeton will come from Europe, the Middle East, North and South America, Africa and Asia. In addition to exchanging jobs, the congress will formulate its program for the coming year and elect international leaders.

In addition to Princeton, there are 44 American member colleges and universities in the organization. The delegates to the congress will travel to Washington on Sunday, April 7, for receptions with President Kennedy and Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Person To Person

Cory S. Kammler

In talking about the importance of skilled mechanics to our civilization, an acquaintance said, "Can you imagine our plight if we did not have capable maintenance men for all our complicated machines? Industry would grind to a halt, all transportation would eventually stop in their tracks, and our homes, one by one, would become pioneer cabins." He told us about a primitive village in India, where they had an automatic pump installed in their only well, and sealed it over with cement. Eventually the pump broke down, and no one in the village knew what to do. For months, while they waited for a repairman, their only source of water was a muddy pond used by their cattle. As we have said before, for hundreds of thousands of young men, becoming a skilled mechanic offers unusual opportunity, a satisfying life, and a career that frequently leads to independence. Ask any successful owner of a mechanical, electrical, plumbing, business, etc., how he started. We feel it is a public service to relate such facts once in a while just as we pledge serving your best interests is our first and last goal. CHECK TERMITE DAMAGE

Every year at this time, homeowners find winged insects that suddenly fly out and then drop their wings and crawl all around. These insects are termites and indicate that there are thousands of other termites still eating the house causing further destruction to the wood of the house. The cost of repairs for exceeds the cost of treatment and goes higher with delay.

Call us for free inspection of your home by experienced personnel.

Our work, which we guarantee for TEN years, is engineered to exceed specifications of existing regulations making us the leaders in the field.

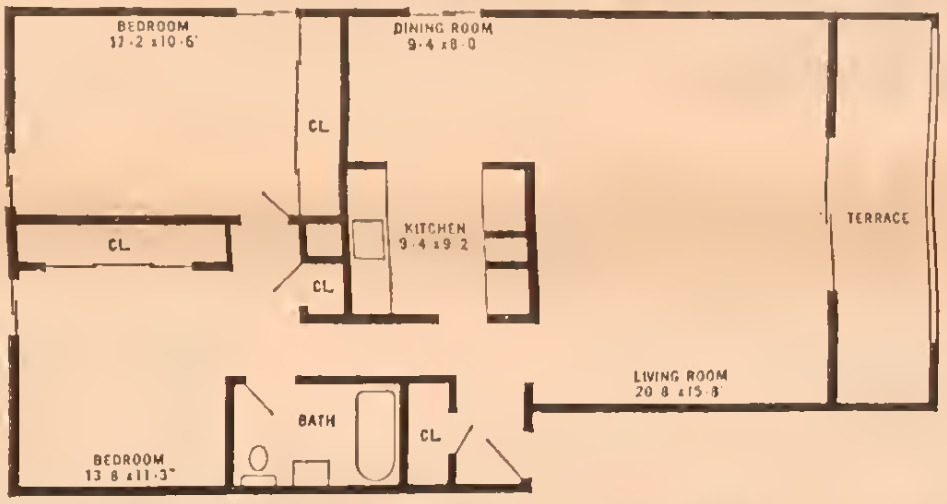
If you've managed to live without 2 pools, 18 hole golf course, tennis courts, badminton courts, ice skating rink, bowling center and first run movie house...



imagine how much more fun you'll have in this apartment!

Did we say apartment? It's more like a country club. You get 2 pools—free. Tennis courts free. Badminton courts—free. The bowling center, Golf Course, Health Club & Club House, ice skating rink and theatre aren't free of cost. However, they're free of travel. They're right next door.

Your Princeton Windsor apartment lives beautifully within its wall, too, as you can see from this plan. It's big (20' 8" x 15' 8" living room, 17' x 10½' master bedroom). It's bright (a full wall of windows opening onto a 20' terrace). And it's beautifully equipped—the terrace, central air conditioning, a dishwaster, 2 parking spaces and a closed circuit TV system that lets you watch your child at play at the pool from your own kitchen are included!

What more do you want? A country setting with city conveniences? You've got that, too. You live amid 26 acres of unspoiled woodland, right next door to Princeton . . . minutes from all conveniences.
